The St. Johns' Community Bank, 824 St. Charles road, was robbed of $5590 this morning by three masked men who bound the cashier and janitor, looted the vault unburiedly and departed in an automobile driven by a companion. The loss is insured.

The robbers, all armed and all wearing blue denim overalls, caps, and white handkerchiefs across their faces, entered the bank building through a doctor's office upstairs, apparently before dawn.

With a ladder they reached a window of the office, at the second floor, rear, of the bank building, pried it open and then waited on the stairway leading down to the building lobby, until A. E. Norris, the janitor, entered from St. Charles road, at 6:40 a. m.

Another door, which was locked, connects the bank proper with the building lobby. Norris, who has no key for this door, entered from the outside, and went to the basement to attend to the furnace. He was shaking out the ashes when two men stepped up beside him and ordered crisply, "All right, stick 'em up."

Janitor Wired Fast to Chair. Norris tried to jerk away the handkerchief mask of the nearest robber. The man hit him in the shoulder with his fist and said, "I understand you're pretty tough, but don't try anything."

Gris submitted and was taken to the front of the basement where he was tied in a chair with picture wire.

The robbers asked him for keys to the bank; he said he didn't have them. They inquired what time the cashier arrived and he said, "I don't know; sometimes it's 6 o'clock, sometimes it's 8."

The robbers lit cigarettes and chatted until about 7 o'clock. Then two of them went part way up the cellar stairs to where they could watch the locked inner door, and the third stayed with Norris.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Roosevelt will give a report of his stewardship in the White House to the country next Sunday night. In an address to be distributed to newspapers and broadcast over both national chains, he will sum up what has been accomplished in his two months in office and tell what else he hopes to do before this session of Congress ends.

Because of his expectation to make a complete report on Sunday night, the President decided not to have his speech tonight before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States go over the air.

Crowds See Leap Performed, for Purpose of Advertising His Night Club.
Ray Woods, former Western A. U. diving champion, dived from Eads Bridge at noon today, while crowds of spectators on both banks of the Mississippi River looked on. The distance was 90 feet. "Attired in a red bathing suit and a football helmet, Woods climbed over the bridge railing and, after a minute's pause, dropped in a perfect jack-knife dive. His body cleaved the water and he bobbed up and brickedly swam to one of four waiting launches. The impact on striking the water ripped one of the shoulder straps on his swimming suit, but the diver showed no ill effects of his feat. His wife, Mrs. Bernice Woods, witnessed the dive.

Woods has made more than 140 dives from bridges, including a previous leap from Eads Bridge and two jumps from Brooklyn Bridge. His dive today was for the purpose of advertising a night club he has opened in the West End.

By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, Cuba, May 4.—Ann Harding, movie star, clinging to a capsized sailboat with two companions, saw sharks get an aged Cuban sailor who was swimming to shore for aid yesterday.

The story was told by Marie Lombard, Miss Harding's secretary. "We decided to go sailing yesterday afternoon," said Miss Lombard. "We got a small boat from the Jaimanitas Yacht Club, manned by an old Cuban, Majin Alvarez Tuero, Three miles off Jaimanitas a sudden, strong wind capsize the boat. Miss Harding fell into the water.

"The sailor cried, 'Don't be afraid; stay by the boat.' We hung on. He pulled Miss Harding in. After five or 10 minutes the Cuban said he would try to swim to shore for help.

"He had not gone far when he disappeared. The sharks got him. "After three or four hours, we sighted a motor launch in which Capt. Leslie Wargrett and George Andrews (Third Secretary of the United States Embassy) were going fishing.

"Thinking (Alexander Kirkland of the movies), who had been waving his shirt, said it was not big enough and asked for Miss Harding's skirt. He fastened the skirt to an oar and succeeded in attracting attention.

"They took us to Jaimanitas and thence to the hotel, where doctors attended us. The shock and exposure were terrible."

Parents Issue Appeal to Abductors, Offering Suggestions for Care of Schoolgirl Prisoner.

By the Associated Press.
HARWICHPORT, Mass., May 4.—An opinion that 10-year-old Margaret (Peggy) McMath, kidnaped from her school here two days ago, may have been taken to Detroit, in an effort by her abductors to get into contact with her wealthy grandparents there was expressed this afternoon by William Lee, spokesman for the child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil C. McMath.

"Peggy had been gone just long enough to have reached Detroit," Lee said, adding, "The Detroit authorities have been extremely vigilant and for this reason we expected that there might be some development there during the early part of today.

"We have heard nothing from the Detroit police and we still hope that this silence means that they have clues which they do not care to divulge."

Lee said he hoped for the child's sake that she had been taken off Cape Cod. He said he felt that with the way the police had responded in the case the kidnapers would feel they had been closed in on if they were still in this vicinity and that it would be better for the child's safety if she had been removed from the Cape.

He said the family would keep the family grounds clear of policemen so the kidnapers might be free to communicate with them.

Search on Cape Cod. Massachusetts State troopers searched the sandy beaches and back roads of Cape Cod today for Margaret and her kidnapers.

Twenty police cruising cars were lined up at the police station, and 50 picked troopers of the State patrol received their orders from Lieut. James Hughes, their immediate commander. Those of the State troopers not assigned to cruising cars were mounted on motorcycles.

The police were under orders to visit every store, house and occupied camp along the sandy beaches and the scrub pine stretches of the Cape. They were ordered to stop at road intersections to question nearby residents.

Daniel Needham, State Commissioner of Public Safety, issued orders for 20 State troopers to go to Mashpee, an Indian settlement, about 20 miles distant, in the search for the girl.

Coast guards continued to aid the searchers. Above, surfmen walked their beach patrols on the lookout for some sign of the girl. At sea patrol boats resumed their search for strange craft.

Announcement Expected. Lee told reporters that the McMath family, thinking the abductors of the girl might be members of an organized gang from a large city, desired to have a contact in New York. He said they had chosen Aaron Davis, an uncle of Lee, to perform this office.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McMath, he said, were "bearing up very well" and were hopeful.

An appeal to the kidnapers was made today by the parents. Supplementing suggestions as to the child's care, they asked their daughter to be "a good girl" and to jump when the captors told her. The appeal, which was in her mother's handwriting, follows: "If it is necessary to take the child in an automobile, it would be wise to have a supply of chewing gum, as one becomes car sick."

Declares Depositors' Accounts Were Changed on Books to Conceal Borrowing for Operations.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—A Senate investigating committee was told yesterday that Joseph W. Harriman misappropriated funds of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co. to conceal an illegal loan for purchase of the bank's stock for a pool participated in by most of its directors.

Henry E. Cooper, who succeeded Harriman as president of the bank, in New York, said that 25 of the bank's 27 directors were in the pool, but he did not know whether they were aware of irregularities. Harriman was manager of the pool, Cooper said, and the other participants did not necessarily know of its operations. Under persistent questioning, however, Cooper said none of them had put up money to join the pool.

Chairman Stephens announced that the Senate committee would go further into this development which came at the end of a long day's inquiry into the Government's delay in prosecuting Harriman.

Clearing House Blamed. Treasury officials testified that the delay was allowed on assurance that the New York Clearing House would protect depositors in the Harriman Bank and expressed the view that the Clearing House Association was legally liable for all losses in the Harriman Bank.

F. G. Ault, acting Comptroller of the Currency, declared the Clearing House banks were "morally and legally bound" to make good every cent lost by depositors, and disclosed that his office might file suit to force them to do so.

Cooper, who is now conservator of the closed bank, volunteered his story of the loan. He said he thought the committee had a misconception of what Harriman had done.

Harriman, Cooper said, was buying stock in the bank for himself, for the Harriman Securities Co., which he headed, and for the pool participated in by the bank's directors.

Transfer of Accounts. Running short of funds, he borrowed money from the bond department of the bank illegally, Cooper said, and when the bank examiner came around he temporarily transferred funds from depositors' accounts to conceal these loans. When the examiner left, Harriman restored the funds to the depositors, Cooper added.

"He did not specifically 'steal the money,' Cooper explained. "There may have been a loss, but Harriman did not directly take that money and steal it."

"That much different from the bank clerk who takes money and intends to put it back," asked Senator Robinson (Rep.), Indiana. "I am not defending it," Cooper said. "I condemn it from top to bottom."

Outline of the Provisions Of Administration Railroad Bill

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—The administration's railroad bill introduced today by Chairman Rayburn of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, as explained by him, provides:

A Federal co-ordinator to effect economies through a year's suspension of the anti-trust laws affecting railroads.

The lines to be divided into three groups—Eastern, Southern and Western.

Three regional co-ordinating groups shall be created by the lines in the respective groups to co-operate with the co-ordinator.

Purposes of the bill as outlined by Rayburn are to encourage and promote or require action by the carriers which will:

Avoid unnecessary duplication of services and facilities of whatever nature and permit joint use of terminals and trackage.

To control allowances and other practices affecting service or operation, to the end that undue impairment of net earnings may be prevented.

To avoid preventable expense. To promote financial reorganization of the carriers.

To provide immediately study of other means of improving transportation conditions.

Many of the purposes of the legislation are to be carried out voluntarily.

The co-ordinator, however, is empowered to direct elimination of services, to provide maintenance, where central committees of railway labor organizations shall be advised of changes in services affecting labor and directed to confer with their representatives.

Orders of the co-ordinator under the act shall remain in effect until vacated by him, but carriers and other interested parties have a right to appeal.

President Recommends Repeal of Recapture of Profits and Regulation of the Railway Holding Companies.

THREE GROUPS OF

Maintenance of Employment and Fair Wage Desired—Group to Propose Control of Industry to Roosevelt.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Roosevelt today submitted to Congress a program of temporary railroad legislation, designed to tide the carriers over the depression, or until a permanent plan of reorganization can be worked out. The bill, frankly described in the President's message as a transition measure, contains three provisions, as follows:

Repeal of the so-called "recapture clause" of the existing Transportation Act, under which the Federal Government is permitted to recover from the railroads half of their net earnings over 6 per cent.

Regulation of railway holding companies by the Interstate Commerce Commission precisely as individual railroads are now regulated.

Creation of a Federal co-ordinator of transportation, with power to eliminate duplication of services, prevent waste, and encourage financial reorganization.

Introduced in Both Houses. The bill was introduced simultaneously in House and Senate by Representative Rayburn (Dem., Texas), chairman of the House Committee on Interstate Commerce, and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader.

It provides expressly that the new post of Federal co-ordinator may be filled by a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, thus strengthening the belief that the appointment will go to Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman, long considered the most progressive member of the commission.

Eastman has repeatedly recommended repeal of the recapture clause and the elimination of duplicating services.

President's Text. The text of the President's message follows:

"To the Congress: "The steam railways still constitute the main arteries of commerce in the United States.

"At this time, however, available traffic is not sufficient profitably to utilize existing railway facilities and the supplementary facilities provided by new forms of transportation.

"Our broad problem is so to coordinate all agencies of transportation as to maintain adequate service.

"I am not yet ready to submit to the Congress a comprehensive plan for permanent legislation.

"I do believe, however, that three emergency steps can and should be taken at this special session of the Congress.

Three Main Proposals. "First, I recommend the repeal of the recapture provisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission act.

"The commission has pointed out that existing provisions are unworkable and impracticable.

"Second, railway holding companies should be placed definitely under the regulation and control of the Interstate Commerce Commission in like manner as the railways themselves.

"Third, as a temporary emergency measure, I suggest the creation of a Federal co-ordinator of transportation who, working with groups of railroads, will be able to encourage

BULKLEY TELLS OF BANK DEPOSIT GUARANTEE PLAN

Senator Before Chamber of Commerce Says Glass Bill Would Insure All Accounts Under $10,000.

RESERVE GROUPS TO FORM CORPORATION

S. H. Strawn Urges Trade Agreements to Equalize Production — President's Speech Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The United States Chamber of Commerce, awaiting word tonight from President Roosevelt of the government's plans regarding business today heard Senator Bulkley of Ohio outline the insurance of bank deposits being contemplated by Congress.

The senator called attention to the section of the revised Glass banking bill providing insurance of deposits through a corporation to be capitalized jointly by the United States Treasury, Federal Reserve banks and Federal Reserve member banks.

Dr. John W. Ross, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, brought the greetings of Canadian business men with a word of praise for President Roosevelt's series of economic conferences here and Representative Shannon (Dem.) of Missouri, substituting for Director Douglas of the budget, told what is being done in an effort to eliminate government competition with private business.

Bulkley said all deposit accounts of $10,000 and less would be fully insured under the bank bill and accounts in excess of $10,000 insured to the extent of 75 per cent of the excess over $10,000 up to $50,000, and 50 per cent of all the excess over $50,000.

Favors Small Depositors.
The senator said the bill is aimed to protect the small depositor because "in time of stress and doubt it is the aggregate withdrawals of small depositors which have in many cases drained our banking institutions of cash that even completely solvent banks have been unable to meet the demands of their depositors."

"The insurance provided in this proposed act," he said, "will so far remove any possible legitimate cause for such fear that it is most unlikely that in the future there will be any runs on banking institutions whose deposits may be insured by the Federal Bank Deposit Insurance Corporation."

A new bank would replace a closed bank immediately under the plan, he said, and this bank would assume the net deposit liabilities of the closed bank. As soon as the amount of depositor net claims is determined they will be given credit on the bank's books and the depositors would be authorized to accept deposits so that depositors might proceed virtually without interruption.

Strawn Urges Agreements.
Trade agreements equalizing production and consumption within limits defined by a Government agency were advocated by Elias H. Strawn of Chicago, former president of the Chamber, speaking at a luncheon meeting of delegates. He said that much could be accomplished by amending the Sherman anti-trust law so as to sanction such agreements.

"In this time of world-wide depression and of ever-increasing competition with other nations," Strawn said, "I submit for your serious consideration whether the time has not arrived when we shall have to depart from, or at least modify, our economic policy of conserving only the immediate interest of the ultimate consumer and whether we shall not have to adopt at least a modification of the 'national economy' scheme pursued by our European neighbors."

"If we adhere strictly to the theory that competition must continue regardless of the fate of the producer, it may become so keen as to deprive him of any return on capital invested and deny a living wage to his employee. Under the existing system, the larger units, by law of decreasing costs, are slowly replacing the small producers. Can't a saner solution be evolved by agreements which tend to equalize production and consumption to the general advantage?"

"Such a co-ordinator should also, in carrying out this policy, render useful service in maintaining railroad employment at a fair wage."

There was no disposition in any quarter to represent the measure as anything but a makeshift.

Rayburn's View of Bill.
Rayburn told reporters that the bill was a step toward fulfillment of the policy outlined by Roosevelt in his railway speech at Salt Lake City during the campaign. The president, he said, believed that the railways should be encouraged to set their own house in order, and the bill was drawn with that purpose in mind.

"I am glad," he continued, "that the President does not hold out that this bill is a solution of all transportation problems, but it is an effort to afford railroad management an opportunity to show what they can accomplish through their own efforts. The bill would remove the alibi which the management have continually sought to establish—interference by the anti-trust laws."

Rayburn announced that his committee would start hearings on the bill Monday morning. Prompt passage is in prospect. The principal opposition is expected to come from railway labor unions, whose leaders fear that "elimination of duplication" means the abolition of a large number of jobs. Donald Richberg of Chicago, counsel for the labor union, has expressed dissatisfaction with the program.

On the other hand, the appointment of Commissioner Eastman as Federal co-ordinator would be highly satisfactory to railroad labor, to whom he has always exhibited a friendly attitude. In his message today the President remarked that the co-ordinator should "render useful service in maintaining railroad employment at a fair wage."

BILL TO CONTROL THE INDUSTRIAL OUTPUT PROPOSED

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—The draft of a revolutionary bill to mobilize and control industrial production through trade association action was virtually ready for submission to President Roosevelt today by a group of administration advisers.

The Chief Executive was informed of the general outlines of the proposed legislation and was expected to discuss it tonight in his address to the United States Chamber of Commerce.

It would let down the anti-trust laws to permit trade associations to work out production agreements with the approval of a governmental body to be created for the purpose.

Trade associations would be permitted to plan production and arrange prices subject to approval by the governmental body, which might impose regulations regarding wages and working hours as conditions for approval of the agreements.

The plan is purely of emergency character and would be authorized for a three-year period in order, as one of its authors described it, to "get industry off dead-center."

The whole plan still is subject to approval of the President, which may be contingent to some extent upon the reaction he receives from his discussion of it tonight.

Measure Sent to House Bars All Loans to Corporations Paying Salaries Above $17,500.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Senate today passed and sent to the House the Fletcher bill to permit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to increase its borrowing power by $500,000,000 to purchase or lend on preferred stock of insurance companies.

The measure was recommended by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to strengthen the capital structures of weakened insurance corporations.

Under it, the benefiting companies would be required to furnish new capital equal to that for which application is made to the corporation.

The Senate granted broad power to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to investigate loans to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Without debate, it approved a resolution offered by Chairman Fletcher on behalf of the committee.

The resolution was drafted by Fletcher on instructions from the committee to give it authority to acquire into charges of improper loans.

Several complaints have been filed with committee members about specific loans and the purpose of the resolution is to permit inquiry into these or other complaints that may be received.

The Senate adopted an amendment to prohibit Reconstruction Corporation loans to any corporation paying an officer, director or employee more than $17,500 a year. Accepted without a record vote, it would apply to all loans by the Reconstruction Corporation hereafter.

Some details of the plan are yet to be worked out, but the general outlines have been agreed upon by an administration committee composed of Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, Assistant Secretary Dickinson of the Commerce Department, and others.

The bill probably will be submitted to the President tomorrow but the President already has been advised of its more important provisions for discussion tonight if he deems wise.

SAYS FRANCE MUST COOPER ECONOMIES OR INFLATION

Marcel Regnier in Presenting Budget Report to Senate Issues Warning.

PARIS, May 4.—The French Senate was told today by its Budget Committee reporter that "before it is too late we must choose: Either economies or inflation."

Marcel Regnier sounded this warning in presenting the budget report which seeks to reduce the budget deficit from the figure of 4,176,000,000 voted by the Chamber of Deputies, to 3,000,000,000 francs.

Authorities of the Bank of France advised that no ill effects have been felt from the dollar's devaluation. The first report of the bank since the dollar left gold showed an increase in gold, a fact which the press calls reassuring.

The commission also ordered a general investigation into railroad rates which may be affected by adjustment of truck rates. The investigation, members of the commission said, probably will require several weeks.

RAILS STRONG ON 'CHANGE' AFTER ROOSEVELT MESSAGE

Gains Range From 1 to 3 Points; Oil Shares Also Make Some Advance.

NEW YORK, May 4.—President Roosevelt's railroad message to Congress and reports of a sharp pickup in traffic and signs of a strengthening of the East Texas oil price structure brought a bull market in the rail and oil shares today with gains in these groups ranging from 1 to more than 3 points.

Leaders in the rail group included Atchafalaya, Union Pacific, New York Central, Lackawanna and Delaware & Hudson.

The buying in the oils was based chiefly on the hope that the Texas Railroad Commission would order a further cut in production and end the East Texas price demoralization.

$1080 ON RELIEF DEPOT PICKET

Chicago Police Also Find Bank Books With $3500 Balance.

CHICAGO, May 4.—When police arrested John Martinsek today for picketing a relief station with demands for $5 per week cash relief, they found $1080 cash and Denver books showing a balance of $3500 in his pockets.

Marching up and down in front of the relief depot, Martinsek carried a hand-made sign emblazoned: "Down with the 25 cents forced labor. We demand work at union wages. Down with flophouses. We demand $5 per week cash relief." He said he had come recently from Colorado after earning the money in mines.

The First National Co., under the plan, would retain any of the mortgages which might remain after the claims of participation noteholders, as limited by the plan, had been satisfied. The Ellis suit would have the proceeds of all the mortgages distributed among the noteholders.

PIERSON DEFENSE RESTS, CASE TO GO TO JURY TOMORROW

Arguments to Be Heard Then — Arson Murder Trial Will Go Into Its Eleventh Day.

INSURANCE MAN TAKES THE STAND

Says $100,000 Policy Was Carried on Wing of Hotel but $1000 Premiums Were in Default.

The defense closed this afternoon in the case of Ralph Pierson, charged with murder in the burning of the Buckingham Hotel Annex, with loss of seven lives, Dec. 5, 1927. Arguments will be heard tomorrow, and the case is expected to go to the jury tomorrow afternoon. This is the tenth day of the trial, in Judge Hoffmeister's court.

Pierson, part owner of the Buckingham Hotel and Annex before the fire, is accused of having caused employees to set the Annex afire, for the insurance. He was convicted at his first trial and sentenced to death, but the State Supreme Court granted him a new trial.

Witnesses for the defense today were Francis T. Amend, auditor for Isaac T. Cook, receiver of the hotel properties, and Frank R. Peterson, treasurer of the Hirschberg Insurance Agency. Peterson testified that the insurance on the east wing of the Annex, the part destroyed by the fire, was $100,000. But he introduced a letter from a special agent of the Northern Assurance Co., which wrote the $100,000 policy, disclaiming liability for the fire, because premiums of about $1000 were in default.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Sullivan asked whether $139,000 had not been paid on the fire loss, but the witness said he did not know.

Pierson Again on Stand.

Pierson, whose testimony in his own defense was completed last evening, was recalled and asked about the insurance on the east wing. He said it was $100,000, but that he knew the company was threatening to cancel it when the receiver took charge of the property, some time before the fire.

Sullivan, reverting to another part of Pierson's testimony, asked Pierson whether he had testified in his first trial that the Buckingham Hotel coffee shop was closed in November, 1927. Pierson did not remember, and the Court upheld an objection of Pierson's lawyer, Verne R. C. Lacy, to further questions about this, Lacy arguing that Pierson's testimony could not be impeached on the ground of something he had not said.

Robert H. Catham, former night clerk of the Buckingham, and the State's chief witness against Pierson, has testified that Pierson first talked to him about the plot to burn the hotel, as they sat at breakfast in the hotel coffee shop one morning in November, 1927. At that time, the defense now maintains, the coffee shop was not in operation.

Catham was brought here as a witness from the penitentiary, where he is serving a 10-year sentence for his confessed part in the arson plot. Andrew B. Meadows, night watchman of the Annex, another State's witness, is under sentence of death.

A transcript of the testimony given by Catham and Meadows at the first Pierson trial was introduced by the defense today, Lacy saying he might wish to refer to it in his argument. Bookkeeping records and insurance policies, introduced by the defense, took up most of the time this morning.

Picks Out Passages.

After the defense closed, Sullivan proposed to read the entire record of the previous testimony of Catham and Meadows to the jury. Lacy objected that he intended to refer only to some parts of it. Sullivan then insisted that these parts be indicated to him in advance of the arguments, and Lacy sat down with the transcript, to select the passages he might use. Meanwhile, the other lawyers in the case worked on instructions which the court will be asked to give to the jury. Court adjourned at 3:10 p. m. to reconvene at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Pierson's testimony in his own defense was in two parts. First, he flatly contradicted the testimony of Catham and that of Meadows, the latter having less direct bearing on Pierson. Second, he endeavored to show that because of the receiver's ship and outstanding claims against the property at the time of the fire, he could not have profited, even if the $225,000 insurance on the Annex and contents had been collected in full.

Pierson, in his cross-examination yesterday, said his financial interest in the property had been existing for 10 months before the fire. After that, he said, he would not have realized a cent if the property had been sold. He insisted that, at the time of the fire, he did not know the amount of the insurance.

Pierson said that his associate in the ownership of the property, Lewis E. Balson, had put $66,000 into the property when its financial difficulties began, while Pierson had put in nothing. "The more Balson put in, the less my interest became," Pierson said. Balson was freed more than two years ago, by order of Circuit Judge Taylor, of charges connected with the arson plot, the Court declaring that there was "not one straw of evidence" against him.

Pierson said he and Balson, in acquiring the hotel property in 1927, acted as real estate dealers, taking the hotel and Annex over as a realty investment, and intending to develop the property and sell it at a profit. He said the apparent cause of the financial troubles they experienced was the activity of Mrs. Blanche Kaune, real estate agent, who, he said, went about "hawking the hotel property on the street, without authority from us."

Pierson said, "Balson said, 'I was always flying out with some new plan.' Pierson said, 'though Balson and I begged her to let us alone. People naturally thought there was something wrong with the property, the way she ran around trying to sell it.'"

In January, 1928, the month after the fire, Pierson said, Mrs. Kaune said she represented an insurance company which was ready to put a large amount of money into the property. "At that time," he testified, "the main hotel had been sold under foreclosure, and I saw no use in bothering with her, but at Balson's request I made out a memorandum which has been shown here, purporting to show an outline of the financial setup."

"Nothing in it," at memorandum," Pierson continued, "reflects my idea of what could be done with the property." The memorandum, and the transcript of Mrs. Kaune's testimony at Pierson's previous trial, were introduced by the State in the present hearing. Mrs. Kaune is now a patient in the State Hospital at Farmington.

TAX RATE OF 1933 EXPECTED TO SET HIGH RECORD HERE

Comptroller's Office Estimates Realty and Personal Property Levy at $2.78 at Least, on $100 Valuation.

The total rate in St. Louis for 1933 taxes on real estate and personal property, due next autumn, will be at least $2.78 on the $100 of assessed valuation, according to the Comptroller's office. This will be the highest rate on record here—at least a cents higher than last year's rate of $2.74.

Items in the total rate for the State and schools have been fixed. The city has yet to fix its part for municipal purposes, which, doubtless, will remain at the maximum of $1.27, and for the interest and sinking fund, which must be increased. The city has until May 29 to fix its rates and is likely to establish them sooner. Should it fail to act, last year's rate would apply.

The contemplated increase will have little effect on the average tax bill and will take away only a fraction of the saving effected by the general reductions of real estate assessments last year and this year.

As an example, a house was assessed at $8000 for 1931 taxes, which was reasonable for a fairly large modern home. Last year's 10 per cent cut in valuation made the assessment $7200 and the tax bill, at $2.74, was $197.28. This year's cut in valuation, to 20 per cent under the 1931 level, makes the assessment $6400. If the old rate of $2.74 were to be continued, the tax bill this year would be $175.36, or $21.92 less than that of last year. If the new tax rate is fixed at $2.78, the bill will be $177.92—a difference of only $2.56 caused by the rise in rate. A rate of $2.80 would make the bill $179.20.

Notice was issued by the State last Tuesday that its 1933 tax rate and the division thereof would be the same as last year. Its rate is 10 cents—5 cents for general revenue, 6 cents toward the World War soldier bonus bonds, 3 cents for the blind pension fund and 1 cent for interest on general State bonds.

School Rate Fixed.

The Board of Education fixed its 1933 rate at 10 cents for the school bond interest and sinking fund and 85 cents for general purposes. The maximum rate of 85 cents for general purposes was authorized by the voters for four years in 1930. Last year the board did not find it necessary to levy a tax for its interest and sinking fund.

The city's rate, apart from its interest and sinking fund, has been at the maximum of $1.25 since 1925. Out of this comes 4 cents for Public Library, 2 cents for City Art Museum and 2 cents for Forest Park Zoo, special rates which have been at this level since 1918, with one minor exception. For general municipal purposes this leaves a rate of $1.27. City officials say the decrease in the assessments and the volume of tax delinquency prevents a reduction of the city tax rate.

In 1929-30 the tax rate for the interest and sinking fund was 40 cents and in 1930-31 it was 50 cents. The school rate has been as high as 85 cents in the past. The State rate has fluctuated, ranging from 10 to 19 cents in recent years. The record total rate here, prior to last year, was $2.71, in 1930 and 1931.

Last year the city charged 30 cents for its interest and sinking fund, the highest rate since 1900. Deputy Comptroller Gunn, who has not had time to calculate this year's needs, said that while the interest and sinking fund rate would have to be at least 41 cents and might have to be 43 cents or even higher. Delinquencies in 1932 tax payments had added to the necessity of increasing this rate, in order to assure enough money in the fund to meet all interest and principal charges promptly. The city must retire $2,869,000 in bonds maturing this year. Interest charges for the year have not yet been totaled.

1000 GIRLS SEEK 32 CHORUS JOBS IN MUNICIPAL OPERA

Crowd Fills Downstairs Seats and Aisles of American Theater as Tryouts Begin.

More than 1000 girls applied for 32 jobs in the Municipal Opera chorus today, filling the downstairs seats and aisles of the American Theater, where tryouts were held. The fifteenth opera season opens Monday, June 5, at the open-air theater in Forest Park, with Noel Coward's romantic operetta, "Bitter Sweet."

Tryouts for both singers and dancers—there will be about 16 of each chosen—were scheduled for 11 o'clock, but the crowd was so great that dancing trials were postponed until 8 o'clock tonight and the dancer applicants were told to leave until that time. Only about 300 departed. Forty seated themselves on the stage for the first eliminations an ad long line, four abreast, formed near the stage steps at the right side of the theater.

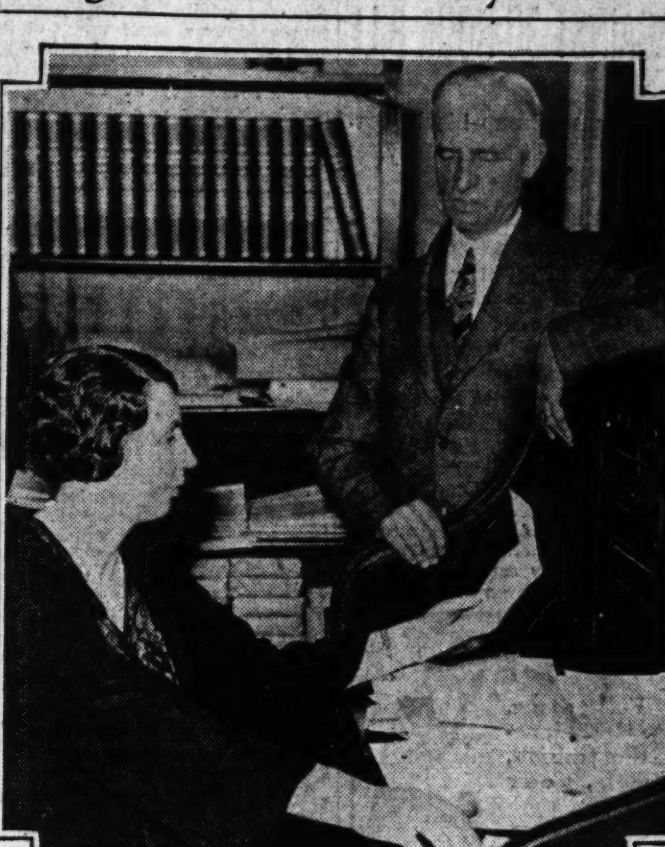

Then the auditioning began, with more applicants arriving at the theater each minute. A long and busy afternoon, the first of many similar, was in prospect. The most likely applicants were told to come back within a few days for further trials and the rest were told they would be notified as soon as there was a demand for their services.

Men will have their tryouts at 11 o'clock tomorrow at the American. Men must be both singers and dancers in order to qualify, while among the girls, a specialty in one form and slight knowledge of the other is considered sufficient.

Municipal Opera executives are attempting to complete the tryouts this week, in order to begin rehearsals for "Bitter Sweet" next week. The productions staff is already at work, and J. J. Shubert arrived yesterday for his third year as general productions manager, "happy," he said, "to be associated with an organization like the Municipal Theater Association, which doesn't even recognize that a depression exists."

His personal representative, E. R. Simmons, veteran picker of chorus men and women, for the third year was in charge of the tryouts. Assisting him were Eddie Scanlon, assistant stage director for the fourth year; Oscar Bradley, here for the first time as music director; Max Rubens, in his third year as associate music director; and William Holbrook, who trained last season's dancers.

DR. O. S. MCLELLAN HEADS NEGRO CITY HOSPITAL NO. 2

He Succeeds Dr. Frank K. Slaughter Who Has Been Superintendent Four Years.

Appointment of Dr. O. S. McClellan, Negro physician, as superintendent of City Hospital No. 2, for Negroes, was announced by Mayor Dickmann today. Dr. McClellan, 42 years old, resides at 2600 Belle Glade avenue with his wife and three children. He will succeed Dr. Frank K. Slaughter, who had held the office about four years. The position pays $200 monthly for the first year and $230 thereafter.

Dr. McClellan, an active pre-election campaigner for Mayor Dickmann, is a graduate of the Howard Medical School, Washington. He obtained a Bachelor of Science degree at the University of Chicago and also studied three years at Northwestern University. He was in intern at City Hospital No. 2 in 1923 and 1924, and since that time has practiced in St. Louis.

HOUSE TIGHTENS ITS RULES

Bars Separate Votes on Different Items in Bills.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Democratic majority amended the rules of the House yesterday so as to prevent opponents of any issue from forcing separate votes on different items in a single bill.

Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader, under the old rules forced a separate vote on inflation in the farm relief bill earlier the day.

Two roll call votes were necessary for the adoption of the new rule. It was adopted 240 to 142, then a motion by Cannon (Dem.), Missouri, to reconsider was rejected, 221 to 140.

ACTING GOVERNOR PAROLES TWO ST. LOUIS SLAYERS

J. D. O'Leary, Ex-Folicman, Sentenced for Manslaughter, and Joe Swabow Gets Clemency.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 4.—Joseph D. O'Leary, former St. Louis police officer, who is serving a 10-year penitentiary sentence for manslaughter, received a parole today from acting Gov. Frank G. Harris. Joe Swabow, serving 20 years from St. Louis for second-degree murder, also was paroled. Swabow, who was received at the penitentiary Feb. 10, 1928, was kidnapped several months ago by two escaping prisoners, who also abducted a guard. He has served as chauffeur for prison officials. Swabow killed Bart Vallosio in a St. Louis saloon, Jan. 6, 1927.

O'Leary, who killed William Silvey, a former convict, has served one year and three months of his 10-year sentence. O'Leary killed Silvey in a saloon at 2200 Franklin avenue, Sept. 27, 1929. O'Leary was paroled to James Callahan, 3222, Duncan avenue. Eleven of the 12 jurors who tried him recommended the parole.

Twenty-one members of the St. Louis city-county members of the House recommended the parole for Swabow.

CIRCUS HERALDS OPENING PERFORMANCE WITH PARADE

St. Louis witnessed its first circus parade in several years this morning when a procession of attractions of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus paraded from the circus lot at Grand boulevard and Laclede avenue to Sixth and Market streets and return.

The procession included five brass bands, 200 performers, 50 cages of animals, 20 elephants and a calliope. The circus opened a four-day engagement this afternoon. Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m. each day.

URGES ROPING OFF STREETS FOR USE OF ROLLER SKATERS

A plea on behalf of street roller skaters was presented today in a letter received by Chief of Police Cerk from a young woman, who did not sign her name.

The writer explained that she is a stenographer and, with other office workers, obtained needed recreation and exercise roller skating until police recently stopped the practice. She suggested that little traveled streets be roped off for roller skaters, explaining that sidewalks are too uneven for good skating.

R. P. LAMONT TESTIFIES AGAINST 30-HOUR BILL

Tells House Group Black Measure Would Close Many Steel Plants.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—Robert P. Lamont, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute, told the House Labor Committee today that application of the proposed 30-hour work week to the steel industry would "in many cases lead to the closing of plants and consequent unemployment." Lamont was Secretary of Commerce under President Hoover.

"The iron and steel industry is anxious to co-operate with the Government in any sound plan to increase employment and purchasing power," he said, "and I believe in this emergency it can be effectively done by a Government board or council appointed by the President, supported by a small group of industrial leaders—also appointed by the President—and working through industry as now organized."

Further, Lamont asserted, the 30-hour bills proposed would not noticeably increase employment or buying power in the steel industry but would increase costs and selling prices to an extent that would dry up markets, encourage imports of iron and steel and the use of substitute materials.

Harvey J. Kelly, representing the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, told the committee that the measure submitted by Secretary Perkins without further clarification, would injure the newspaper business, reduce employment and work a hardship on the public generally.

"Is the 30-hour-a-week law to apply to reporters?" he asked. "And if so, how? How, for instance, would a reporter investigating a crime story be affected by this law? Would it be necessary for the publisher to call him in at the end of six hours and assign another reporter to attempt to pick up the thread of the mystery where the first man left off?"

Frank Nebel, treasurer of the Hunter Packing Co. of East St. Louis, was the first witness to be heard this morning. He was followed by Lester E. Egan, president of Union Electric Light & Power Co., who was recalled after testifying yesterday.

First witness to be heard yesterday was Albert C. Laum, real estate and tax agent of Union Electric Light and Power Co., who was before the grand jury two hours and 15 minutes. He was followed by Egan. Both appeared voluntarily and without subpoena.

Also heard yesterday were Frank Hunter, president of the Hunter Packing Co., and L. E. Wickham, office manager. Others scheduled for hearing are Fred Mitchell and A. C. Hall of the Illinois Power and Light Co., Charles Horner, general manager of the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co., and Cecil Hunt, Phillips Petroleum Co. tax agent.

Five men were indicted in the tax graft inquiry Friday on a charge of conspiracy to solicit and accept bribes or for assessment-fixing. They are Addison J. Throp, whose confession and resignation from the chairmanship of the County Board of Review precipitated the investigation; Arthur P. O'Leary, former chairman; Charles Melvin, member of the Board of Assessors; Frank P. McKane, member of the Board of Review, and Edward J. Delmore, secretary of the Hunter Packing Co. All have given bond except Throp, who is a voluntary jail prisoner.

No word has been received at Belleville yet about the whereabouts of Harry Parker, former confidential employe of Throp's Call Printing Co. of East St. Louis, who was indicted Friday on a charge of forgery. An order for his arrest has been broadcast.

reported hearing a child crying in a dark automobile that turned into a South Chatham by-way. Police followed the little-used wooded road. It took them to a sandy beach on which were footprints of a child, a man and a woman. The footprints ended where beach and brush met.

Again investigators thought they had a clue, but in many places the sets of prints were widely separated and it seemed unlikely to police the kidnapers would have allowed the girl any such freedom.

State officers, however, seemed convinced that Margaret and her kidnapers were hidden somewhere on Cape Cod.

A man described as a "Brava," a common Cape Cod name for Cape Verde Islanders, was questioned yesterday, but was later released.

No Communication Received.
Meanwhile, the girl's father issued a statement from the family home assuring the kidnapers of immunity and any reasonable amount of money for the safe return of his daughter. A 48-hour truce was declared by police to permit the abductors to make contact with McMath, but today there was no indication that any attempt had been made by the kidnapers to communicate with the child's parents.

State police co-operated with McMath to the extent that they refrained from tapping telephones wires on or about the McMath premises.

McMath received newspaper men at the rambling, white colonial house where he has lived for two years. He asked that the kidnapers be good to the child and pledged himself and his wife to "do faithfully and honestly" with them.

Mrs. McMath was grief-stricken at the family home, summer residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kales, prominent Detroit residents. Francis, small brother of Margaret, awaited word of his sister.

Department of Justice agents sought Leo Cellura, formerly a member of the Detroit Purple gang, in nearby Cape Cod communities. Cellura had been seen in Sagamore, nearby, about a month ago and Federal agents had previously been here in search of him. State officers knew nothing of the Cellura angle. They knew the Federal men sought him, but they thought it was on old charges and not in connection with the McMath kidnaping.

Police are of the opinion that the Negro who drove away from the Harwich Center Grammar School with the girl carried out all the preparations for the kidnaping single-handed.

TAX GRAFT JURY STILL QUESTIONING CORPORATION MEN

Executives of Business Concerns Examined in Effort to Learn Whether Bribes Were Solicited.

The special grand jury investigating the St. Clair County tax graft scandal exposed by the Post-Dispatch continued today its examination of executives of East Side corporations.

The object of this, the second phase of the inquiry, is to determine what, if any, offers were made to the executives by members of the tax graft ring, who are known to have solicited bribes and gratuities from many East Side concerns for "letting them alone" on tax assessments, and even for lowering their assessments.

Frank Nebel, treasurer of the Hunter Packing Co. of East St. Louis, was the first witness to be heard this morning. He was followed by Lester E. Egan, president of Union Electric Light & Power Co., who was recalled after testifying yesterday.

Also heard yesterday were Frank Hunter, president of the Hunter Packing Co., and L. E. Wickham, office manager. Others scheduled for hearing are Fred Mitchell and A. C. Hall of the Illinois Power and Light Co., Charles Horner, general manager of the East St. Louis and Interurban Water Co., and Cecil Hunt, Phillips Petroleum Co. tax agent.

Five men were indicted in the tax graft inquiry Friday on a charge of conspiracy to solicit and accept bribes or for assessment-fixing. They are Addison J. Throp, whose confession and resignation from the chairmanship of the County Board of Review precipitated the investigation; Arthur P. O'Leary, former chairman; Charles Melvin, member of the Board of Assessors; Frank P. McKane, member of the Board of Review, and Edward J. Delmore, secretary of the Hunter Packing Co. All have given bond except Throp, who is a voluntary jail prisoner.

No word has been received at Belleville yet about the whereabouts of Harry Parker, former confidential employe of Throp's Call Printing Co. of East St. Louis, who was indicted Friday on a charge of forgery. An order for his arrest has been broadcast.

reported hearing a child crying in a dark automobile that turned into a South Chatham by-way. Police followed the little-used wooded road. It took them to a sandy beach on which were footprints of a child, a man and a woman. The footprints ended where beach and brush met.

Again investigators thought they had a clue, but in many places the sets of prints were widely separated and it seemed unlikely to police the kidnapers would have allowed the girl any such freedom.

State officers, however, seemed convinced that Margaret and her kidnapers were hidden somewhere on Cape Cod.

A man described as a "Brava," a common Cape Cod name for Cape Verde Islanders, was questioned yesterday, but was later released.

No Communication Received.
Meanwhile, the girl's father issued a statement from the family home assuring the kidnapers of immunity and any reasonable amount of money for the safe return of his daughter. A 48-hour truce was declared by police to permit the abductors to make contact with McMath, but today there was no indication that any attempt had been made by the kidnapers to communicate with the child's parents.

State police co-operated with McMath to the extent that they refrained from tapping telephones wires on or about the McMath premises.

McMath received newspaper men at the rambling, white colonial house where he has lived for two years. He asked that the kidnapers be good to the child and pledged himself and his wife to "do faithfully and honestly" with them.

Mrs. McMath was grief-stricken at the family home, summer residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kales, prominent Detroit residents. Francis, small brother of Margaret, awaited word of his sister.

Department of Justice agents sought Leo Cellura, formerly a member of the Detroit Purple gang, in nearby Cape Cod communities. Cellura had been seen in Sagamore, nearby, about a month ago and Federal agents had previously been here in search of him. State officers knew nothing of the Cellura angle. They knew the Federal men sought him, but they thought it was on old charges and not in connection with the McMath kidnaping.

Police are of the opinion that the Negro who drove away from the Harwich Center Grammar School with the girl carried out all the preparations for the kidnaping single-handed.

LACLEDE TRUST DROPS REORGANIZATION PLAN

Announcement Made With Filing of Inventory by State Bank Examiner.

Abandonment of the reorganization plan for the Laclede Trust Co., closed by directors last Jan. 16, was announced today with the filing of the inventory by a State bank examiner.

The inventory listed resources of a book value of $1,688,123, consisting chiefly of loans with a face value of $848,730 and bonds carried at $874,395.

Of the total loans, $229,928 were shown as pledged for obligations of the bank. Included in the pledged loans, however, were notes of $25,878 put up with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on an application for a loan which was not granted. Bills payable to the E. F. C. were listed at $187,320.

Of the total of bonds, $515,786 were shown as pledged, with $124,681 remaining in the bank. The others, carried at $391,105, were sold, according to the inventory, the carrying value representing a loss not adjusted with the bond depreciation account.

Loans to officers and directors were shown as totaling $51,000. While some of these loans were not secured, satisfactory security has been posted since the bank was closed, according to Joseph Renard, attorney for James A. Dacey, special deputy Finance Commissioner in charge of liquidation.

Loans to officers and directors were listed as follows: George L. Zollmann, director, $25,000; George F. Stevens, director, $18,500; Dr. D. A. Thomson, president, $4900; George A. Nies, former secretary, $2000; H. W. Kroeger, vice-president and treasurer, $426; F. W. Wibling, secretary, $100.

Depositors will receive notice within a few days of the time for filing claims. Claims must be filed within four months after the notice.

Our Memory Takes Us Back Many Years
 But We Recall No Equal Opportunity!

Only to the Middle West's Largest Men's Clothing Store does St. Louis look for such a super-achievement. It's an achievement that calls for big-scale treatment. Hence this advertisement of Empire State proportions. If it helps to convey the utter magnitude of the event . . . the over-sized savings . . . the surpassing quality—this giant presentation will have served us well. These are times when strange things happen. On March 6th the President closed the banks of the nation. Retailers lost heart. Closed banks meant closed pocketbooks. A moratorium on buying. Eastern clothing manufacturers were flooded with cancellations on unfilled orders. Alas, they had already bought the piece goods. We sensed the state of affairs.

Confident that conditions would aught themselves speedily, we went into this paralyzed market. We hand-picked the select worsteds among these surplus new piece goods. Then two of the country's most reputable manufacturers tailored these advantageously bought woollens. Not a fraction did they deviate from the standards they adhere to in tailoring far higher-priced clothing. They're as smart an array of Spring Suits as one could hope to see. Fresh-looking plaids, conservative plaids and stripes, checks, small weaves, mixtures. All variations of popular greys, tans, blue-greys, browns and fancy blues. Single and double breasted styles in regulars, shorts, longs, stouts, short stouts and long stouts.

The Wool Market Is Rising
 On the Wings of Inflation

So rapid has been the upswing that leading mills have been forced to withdraw price quotations on their lines. They are unwilling to risk acceptance of orders for future delivery in the face of a bull wool market. Needless to say we couldn't come within miles of duplicating the purchase that we made at the market's low ebb in March. We urge you—be alert to this once-in-a-generation opportunity.

By Next Fall You'll Congratulate Yourself All Over Again For Having Made Such a Wise Investment This Spring.

The Extreme Nature of the Savings Should Bring a Storm of Response From the Word "Go." Be Here at the Doors' Opening at 8 A.M.

HITLER TIGHTENS HIS CONTROL OVER GERMAN INDUSTRY

Baron Krupp von Bohlen to Reorganize National Federation—Confers With Chancellor.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 4.—National Socialist control of the German industries became complete after a final conference of Baron Krupp von Bohlen, head of the Krupp Works at Essen, with Chancellor Adolf Hitler, yesterday.

The Baron early in March was authorized to negotiate with the Chancellor and his Cabinet for a reorganization of the Federation and the adoption of an industrial policy in harmony with the views of the Government, meaning the National Socialist control of the vital industries. The old executive board resigned April 7.

A Federation communiqué said the Baron would remain as president of the Federation, with Otto Wagener, Hitler's economic adviser, and Alfred Moellera, a National Socialist member of the Reichstag as Reich Commissioner.

Baron Krupp von Bohlen, the communiqué stated, had undertaken "to bring his powerful organization into line with the Government's policy."

Overlapping interests will be eliminated to save expenditure and to simplify the working of industrial apparatus.

To Arrange Reorganization. A detailed reorganization plan will be submitted to a meeting of member concerns soon, while the guiding principles for currency, credit and taxation problems will be worked out by an advisory committee.

Apparently hastened by the Government's action Tuesday in taking over the Free Trade Unions, the Catholic Christian Trade Unions and the Office Workers' Society and affiliated organizations surrendered to the Hitler Government. This affects 1,000,000 members.

Bavarian police closed refreshment rooms and Viets stores at Garmisch, giving as a reason that they sold food and drinks "unsuitable for human consumption."

At Bamberg the officers used force in ejecting some customers. Several of the customers were injured and others arrested.

Polish Dispute Taken Up. Chancellor Hitler, with the Polish envoy, Alfred Wyzanski, went over the whole field of vexed German-Polish problems in a conference which Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Foreign Minister, attended. It was officially stated that Hitler declared a firm resolve to remain strictly within the limits of existing treaties, while expressing the hope both sides would proceed to solving the pending questions diplomatically.

The Tagliche Rundschau, Conservative Christian daily newspaper, was suspended for a month for publishing an article criticizing attacks by university students on "un-German" books and professors as a deplorable lack of self-discipline.

Anton Erkelenz, founder and president of the Carl Schurz Society, has been compelled to resign because he insisted that the society should continue as an independent organization, promoting German-American friendship, and should resist the National Socialist demand for control. The prime mover in the ousting of Erkelenz was Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, head of the National Socialist party's foreign political division. Hans Draeger, executive secretary of the Schurz Society, has joined the Foreign Office staff as head of the department for combating atrocity propaganda against Germany.

Nobel Prize Winner Quits. Prof. Fritz Haber, 64 years old, Nobel prize winner in chemistry in 1918, has resigned his directorship in the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Physical and Electro-Chemistry. He is a member of academy at Washington and was feted in America and Japan in 1924.

Bernhard Rust, Prussian Minister of Education, has dismissed 17 Jewish and gentle professors in the Berlin Technical, Berlin Agricultural, Muenster and Griefswald Universities. (Rust Tuesday dismissed 20 professors, 21 in Berlin University and nine at Cologne University, at the beginning of the summer semester.)

Thomas Mann resigned the chairmanship of the Bavarian section of the Society for the Protection of German Authors Munich, saying he intended to withdraw into complete seclusion.

At Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Jewish university students were ordered to turn in their matriculation cards as the first step in carrying out restriction of non-Aryans.

A new German law restricts entrance of Jewish students to schools and universities in relation to the Jewish percentage of the entire population. The recently decreed Aryan law describes as a Jew any person having one Jewish grandparent.

City health officials at Dortmund announced today the establishment of a "race office" which will undertake the work of examining 80,000 school children in the interest of building up the race.

The propagation and improvement of the Aryan race, even to the extent of forbidding racially mixed marriages, is contemplated by the health authorities, as well as the sterilization of the physically and mentally unfit.

UNION MILK WAGON DRIVERS WAGE AGREEMENT EXPECTED

Union milk wagon drivers and employers expect to reach an agreement within a few days on a new wage contract. It was announced today. Details of the negotiations were not divulged pending the signing of the agreement.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

cream companies employing 1200 union drivers failed to agree on a wage cut demanded by employers. The situation was placed before a board of three arbitrators, who voted two to one for an 8 per cent wage reduction, which the union accepted. The scale thus determined was $35.85 a week for drivers on regular routes, and $36.85 to $44.15 for wholesale routes, plus a commission on sales.

SENATE APPROVES SHOALS BILL; NOW UP TO CONFERENCE

Votes 63 to 20 for Own Measure, Differing in Several Details From One Passed by House.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—House leaders today studied the Norris Tennessee Valley-Muscle Shoals development bill, approved yesterday by the Senate, before deciding when to send it to conference to smooth out differences in details from the legislation passed by the House last week.

By 63 to 20, the Senate approved its bill, introduced by Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, which provides for Government operation of Muscle Shoals and the carrying out of President Roosevelt's program of power, navigation and flood control development in the Tennessee River basin. This made the seventh time that the Senate had passed a Norris-supported Muscle Shoals bill.

Afterwards Chairman McSwain of the House Military Committee said the measure was not acceptable "in its entirety" and added, "we may not seek a conference at once because we want to study the changes."

The major differences between the Senate and House bills relate to fertilizer production and Government distribution of power.

The Norris measure provides for experimental production of fixed nitrogen and fertilizers at the Muscle Shoals plant. Under an amendment approved yesterday the proposed Tennessee River authority which will administer the law would have authority to start production itself or lease nitrate plant No. 2 to the American Farm Bureau Federation. The House bill provides for commercial or quantity production of fertilizers.

On power the Senate bill provides for Government construction, purchase or lease of transmission lines, while the House bill would have the Government first try to contract with private industry for distribution before building any lines itself.

An effort to substitute the House provisions in these respects was defeated yesterday before the Senate gave its final approval. Three Democrats—Coolidge of Massachusetts; Gore of Oklahoma; and Tydings of Maryland—and 17 Republicans voted against the bill.

THREE LOUISIANA NEGROES KILLED OVER FORECLOSURE

Officers Say Farmers Attacked Them With Razors, Whip Handles and Clubs.

By the Associated Press.
LAKE CHARLES, La., May 4.—Three Negro farmers were shot and killed late yesterday in a field in Jeff Davis Parish after they were reported to have attacked Sheriff John Conner and Deputy Sheriff Dempsey Cole, who had gone to their farm with a court order demanding that they vacate in foreclosure proceedings.

The officers said the Negroes attacked them with razors, whip handles and clubs.

FALLS TO DEATH FROM PORCH

Leo Wohler, 41 years old, was killed at noon yesterday in a fall from a porch at 2024 A. Cass avenue when the railing broke.

Wohler had been washing a floor at the home of his employer, John Imblerowicz, grocer, and leaned against the railing when emptying a bucket. A seven-foot section of the railing gave way and he fell to a concrete walk, striking his head. Wohler lived at 2016 Cass avenue.

Be A Jump Ahead Of INFLATION

And Rising Commodity Prices!

Commodity prices are the principal determinants of retail prices. When wool, silk, rubber, cotton, metals and the like shoot skyward... it becomes necessary to raise the retail prices of the products made from these commodities. Already 24 out of 30 basic commodities have topped their prices of a year ago!

As inflation spreads through the business arteries of the nation the prices of commodities should swing still higher. That is the express objective of inflation. Here's the way to protect your budget against higher prices—

CARDINALS ROUT BERLY AND DEFEAT PHILLIES, 5 TO 2

MOONEY GIVES ONLY SIX HITS; WATKINS STARTS 5-RUN RALLY

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—James I. Mooney, the young Kentucky schoolmaster with the cocky smile, joined the ranks of winning pitchers this afternoon when he hurled the Cardinals to a 5-2 victory over the Phillies in the first game of a series of three. The southpaw held the Phils to six hits, issued only three passes and the enemy needed two breaks to score their two runs.

The Cardinals won the game with one big inning, in which they scored all their runs, knocking John Berly, once a Redbird, out of the box. Five hits, a sacrifice and a long fly were bunched in the inning to produce five tallies.

The Phillies were first to score, two walks and a single producing a run in the fourth inning. Klein walked, Hays sacrificed and after Todd filed out, Davis drew a pass. Finn dribbled a single through the box and Klein scored from second.

Watkins opened the Redbirds' big inning, the fifth, with a safe punt toward third and Wilson doubled to left, sending Watkins home with the tying run. Mooney bunted for a sacrifice and both runners were safe when Wilson beat Berly's throw to third. Martin singled to left, scoring Wilson; Frisch singled, scoring Mooney; Crawford singled to send Martin home, and after Elliott relieved Berly, Frisch scored on Hornsby's fly to Klein.

Philadelphia added a run in the sixth inning. Todd singled with one out, took third on Davis' single to right, which took a bad bounce and caromed off Watkins' glove, scored on Finn's fly to Medwick.

Redbird Notes.
DERRINGER or Walker will face the Phils tomorrow, with Frank Pearce, a right-hander, likely to be Shotton's selection.

Gabby Street was confined to his hotel room with an attack of bronchitis this afternoon and Frankie Frisch was field manager.

Ethan Allen gave Fullis an extra base by fumbling his single in the third inning, but with two men in scoring position he stoned for the error by racing in for a good catch of Bartlett's short drive to an dth fence.

(Play-by-play on next page.)
LESLIE AND DAVIS OF GIANTS BEAT CUBS IN TWIN BILL OPENER

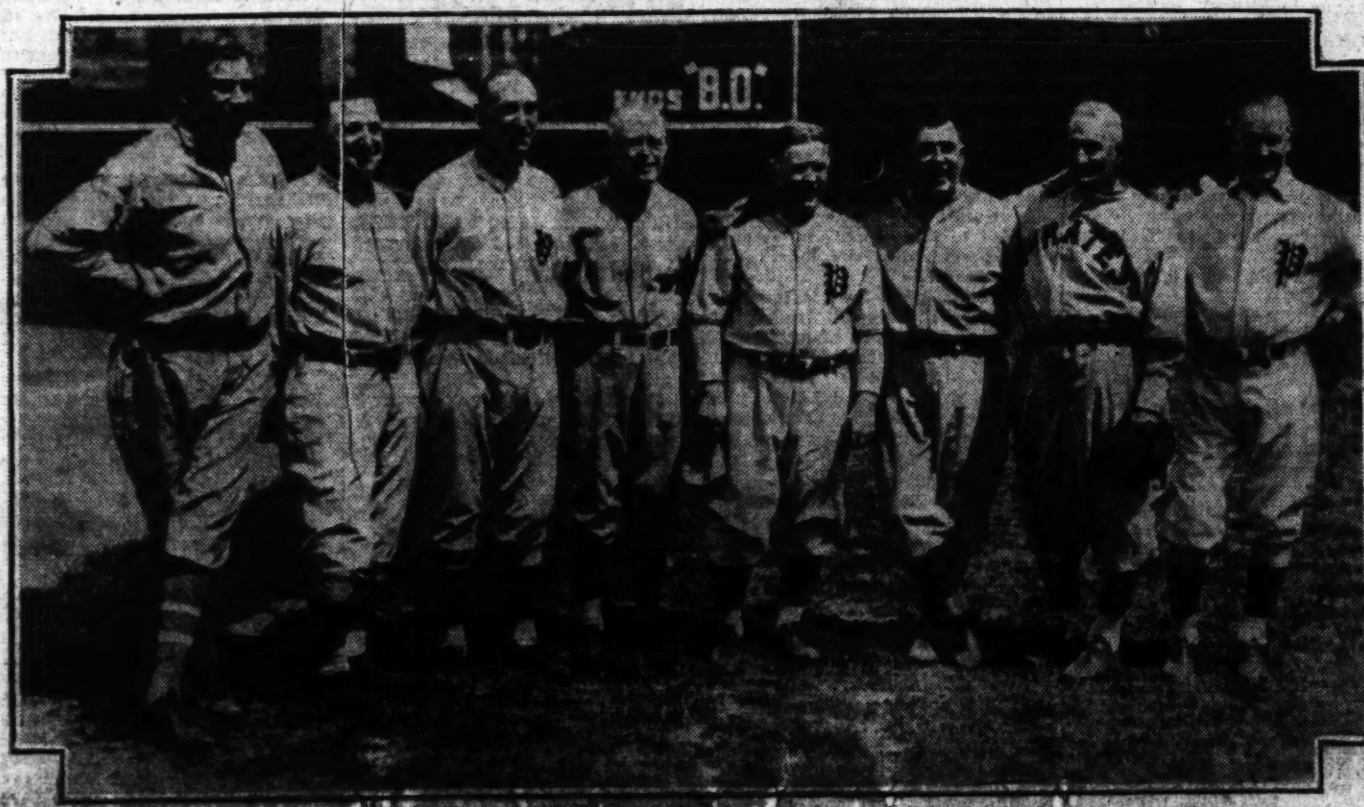

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 4.—Sam Leslie's triple followed by George Davis' single in the sixth inning provided the New York Giants with the winning margin in their 2-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the first game of today's double-header. Tinning and Fitzsimmons were the pitchers.

The double encounter is scheduled for Saturday. The teams have not been named.

WOMEN POSTPONE START OF GOLF SCHEDULE
The opening of play by the Women's District Golf Association has been postponed from tomorrow until next Friday when the first individual event will be held at the St. Louis Country Club. Play May 15, which was set for Algonquin, has been postponed until Sept. 15, the date formerly held by North Shore Country Club, but which will not be entered this season.

Reds Release Franzer.
BOSTON, May 4.—The Cincinnati Reds, playing Boston here, have released Keith Franzer, recent right-handed pitcher, to the Toronto International League club on option.

THEY MADE BASEBALL HISTORY 25 YEARS AGO

Old timers who donned uniforms to play a five-inning game against the Phillies, to assist at the celebration of golden jubilee anniversary of the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club. ## GELBERT DISCARDS CRUTCHES, EXPECTS TO PLAY NEXT YEAR

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Charley Gelbert, the Cardinals' brilliant young shortstop, who accidentally shot himself in the leg with a 12-gauge shotgun last winter, confidently expects to play major league baseball next season and his surgeon told a Post-Dispatch representative this morning that he shared Gelbert's optimism.

Gelbert visited the Hahnemann Memorial Hospital here this morning for examination. He was walking without crutches and without any serious limp. An open wound on one side of his leg remains, but the surgeon in charge said that would heal without any further skin grafting and that the fractured fibula apparently had knitted.

He ordered Gelbert to the X-ray room to determine the condition of the fibula. To Operate Tomorrow.
There is no reason why Gelbert should not regain full use of his leg," the surgeon, Dr. A. B. Webster, said. "His only trouble now is caused by a short tendon leading to the great toe on the injured foot and I expect to remove it by a simple operation tomorrow. I expect Gelbert's leg muscles, tendons and nerves to function normally again and agree with him that he will be able to play baseball next year."

Gelbert was all smiles as Dr. Webster gave the favorable prognosis. "This has been a long battle, but I've got it licked," he said, and Mrs. Gelbert grinned from ear to ear. "You know Jerry and I never did give up. They wanted to cut the foot off when it was numb and later gangrene set in and that was considered a grave crisis. But everything's going to be all right now. I can wiggle all my toes and there isn't anything that's going to slow me up or keep me from playing."

The Achilles tendon, you know, wasn't hurt. The tendon on the side of the ankle was damaged, but after a first operation failed to fix it, a second was successful. For a time I couldn't feel anything on the bottom of my foot, but feeling is returning and now it is almost normal."

Takes It Easy While Walking.
"I'm still walking carefully. You can't help it with that kind of a wound, still open. But I can get around without crutches and I know I'm going to be all right. I've been trying to keep in condition even while I've been convalescing, and I can't wait till I can put on a glove and baseball shoes and the old

BROWNS HAVING 2-DAY HOLIDAY; ATHLETICS PLAY HERE SATURDAY

By James M. Gould.

Because of the continued cold weather, the third and final game of the series between the Browns and the Boston Red Sox was postponed today and will be played off when next the Easterners come to town.

The Browns therefore will have two days of rest, as tomorrow's scheduled game with the Philadelphia Athletics will be played as part of a doubleheader-Sunday.

Lloyd Brown, the former Washington southpaw, was to have opposed the Red Sox today, but probably Blasholder will be Killefer's choice against the Athletics Saturday.

As has been stated before, Bill Killefer hasn't much material to juggle but he is contemplating a move which may take effect in the Saturday opening against the Athletics. The Chicago Cubs, managed by put Ted Gullie, "man-of-all-work," at third base with Art Scharenin taking a ride on the bench, Scharenin last week batted .324 in 21 games for the Browns. This year, thus far, he has hit for just .182 and the Browns are none too well supplied with power to permit carrying four weak-hitting infielders. And that's exactly what they are carrying at present for Burns is batting .121, Melillo .143 and Levey .200. Which, with Scharenin's .182 gives Killefer's infield a "grand"—what an adjective—batting average of .167.

As a matter of fact, the wonder is, considering that infield batting average, how the Browns happened to win those seven games which they are credited with winning. The answer is that they've hustled and hustling, like charity, covers a multitude of sins.

There was nothing to the second Red Sox-Browns game but the Red Sox. The Boston club won, after losing six in a row, the only way that the Boston club, who at present constituted, ever will win—because Jolley and Alexander, who, no matter what their other failings, can hit-hit when there were runners on. Each of these slow-footed but powerful hitters "clicked" in two runs and the total was twice as many tallies as the Browns could muster.

The Browns, after doing some nice hitting since they returned home, went into a batting tail-spin against Andrews, the Boston right-hander. Of course, they did hit hard but luck broke badly and their hardest drives went straight to some opposing defense-man. Tom Oliver, in center field for the Sox, for instance, had eight putouts and some of the chances were more than ordinarily difficult.

ROSS EASILY OUTPOINTS, BUT FAILS TO HURT JOE GHNOULY

CHICAGO TITLE
HOPE DISPLAYS
DAZZLING SKILL,
BUT NO WALLOP

ARENA RESULTS

Barney Ross, Chicago (137), defeated Joe Ghnoully, Los Angeles (135), in 10 rounds. The fight was a technical knockout in the 10th round.

By W. J. McGoggin.

Barney Ross got some good practice for his coming championship bout with Tony Canzoneri, which is to be held in Chicago June 23, when he outpointed Joe Ghnoully in 10 rounds at the Arena, last night, but he was unable to make much of an impression on the smugly fourth Sider on the 4420 fans who attended.

The Chicagoan showed that he possesses just about everything that a great boxer should have; yet against the 133 pounds of brick and iron which is Ghnoully he was unable to make any headway.

Ross feinted Ghnoully cleverly; he hit him with a shower of right and left hand punches; he stuck out his chin for Joe to punch, then made the St. Louis boy look silly by moving his head from side to side as Joe tried in vain to find the target. But through it all the customers yawned and many of them left long before the finish.

Barney won each of the 10 rounds on a 6-4 point basis so the score sheet showed about 60 points for Ross and 40 for Ghnoully; but there was nothing to excite the emotions of the audience. Ross seemed to be able to hit Ghnoully at will, Joe worked himself into a lather trying to make a showing; but all to no avail. Ghnoully can't hurt anybody but nobody can hurt him. So there you are.

Once or twice Ross staggered Joe with hard punches; but Ghnoully, in perfect control of his own mind, couldn't be put on the floor. Joe fought back but he was unable to muss Barney's hair and at the end of the 10 rounds the boys were just where they started.

Freelancees Supply Thrills. Some of the preliminaries made up in excitement which the main event lacked, however, and all in all it was a good fight show, although one who looked at the fight for the public as the scanty attendance showed.

Eddie Edson scored the only knockout on the card when he flattened Frank Hollingsworth, who gave his address as San Francisco, in the second round. Edson brought down the boss of the audience on himself when the crowd thought he hit Hollingsworth on the break. He didn't, but the referee, who had been knocked out by the Californian during a flurry of gloves in the second round.

Joe Huff entered the ring for his bout with Joe Red of Los Angeles, who came to the plaudits of the crowd and left it at the end of six rounds with a chorus of raspberries ringing in his ears, although he had earned the decision after a hard fight.

The two boys opened cautiously and before the bout had gone 30 seconds the fans were demanding action. Huff wanted Red to land, but he didn't know how to find him into a lead and he stood there like a statue, while Red drifted about, flicking left hands in Huff's direction. But before the first round was ended the boys warmed up and the bell ending the first round sounded as they were pitching gloves at one another fast and furiously.

Red Mounts His Bicycle. Huff caught Red with a couple of powerful punches and Red seemed to want to get away from them. The relentless Huff followed him with a cold stare and Red, when he saw his cause was just about hopeless, resorted to running, hoping and hugging. And Huff, try as he would, could not get home a finishing blow.

The crowd liked the six-round draw between Carl Schafer of St. Louis, and Davey Day of Chicago. Day, a tall string bean, and Schafer, a small bounding rubber ball, made a laughable contrast in the ring. But at that their bout was entertaining, if laughable. Schafer whaled away with both hands at Day's middle, which was about as high as he could reach, while Davey pelted Carl as he hopped in. It seemed that Schafer rolled up the greater number of points, but the bout was called a draw. And the fans cheered.

Ray Mitchell punched out a decision in six rounds over the tough Nick Broglio of Harris, Ill., reversing the verdict, which Nick won over him in their last meeting. It was a hard fought contest but some leather lugged pattery pleaded with Harry Kessler to "make them fight." Phew!

Joe Parks gained a decision over Earl Taylor in four rounds in "a certain-race."

Arena Sidelights.

The attendance was announced as 4420 and the "gate" as $3397.35.

SPORTS ALABAMA

Another Alexander.

How big is Alexander, Pa. The one they're labeled Dale? Is he like old Goliath tall and bigger than a whale? "Whalla Alex, taken by and large, is quite a husky guy, it's not his stature makes him great."

It is his batting eye. "But what does George Blaisdell think? About this ponderous man? Does George from the same shrink when Dale steps to the pen?" "Well, not so you could notice it, For, George says, 'after all, The husky boys batter see. The harder they will fall.'"

Quite So.

George Blaisdell won his own game in the tenth inning by bunting safely. Looks like first division and maybe the bunting.

The law of compensation will be served. When it's too cold for baseball, it's okay for hot dogs. Trouble is there is nobody to buy the hot dogs.

However, he is not downcast. While the Weather Man is a most persistent holdout, he is bound to capitulate sooner or later. He always has.

The Cards came pretty near balancing the budget the other day. They made 14 hits and 13 runs.

Dixie Dean kicked in with a three-bagger. Dis can hit that apple if the bat doesn't slip out of his hands and hit the pitcher. It's about an even break.

Not Bad.

In the same game "Pepper" Martin played third without a fielding error.

Francis Schwartz, Meadow Brook professional, took the lead in the St. Louis Professional Golf League, temporarily at least, when he defeated Jimmy Fogarty, Osage, in a match at Westborough Country Club this morning.

As Fogarty would have been unable to play Sunday, the boys got together and played their match in advance.

The victory gave Schwartz two victories and no defeats, as he won his first round match last Sunday. Fogarty has won one and lost one.

The match was a close one with Schwartz having a score of 72 and Fogarty 73. Fogarty turned the first nine one up, having won the first hole, but the fifth and captured the eighth when Fogarty went one over par.

Fogarty evened the match with a par 5 on the twelfth hole. He didn't, but the referee, who had been knocked out by the Californian during a flurry of gloves in the second round.

BEAUMONT WINS AND MOVES INTO FIRST-PLACE TIE

By Harold Tuttle.

Beaumont, given only an outside chance at the start of the City High School League baseball race to win the championship, has come up so quickly that now the North Siders can take over sole possession of first place provided they defeat Central tomorrow afternoon at the Public Schools Stadium.

Coach Victor Kirk's team moved into the lead with a victory over the fourth when they scored four runs at the end of the regulation seven innings the score would have been knotted at two-all. There is a reason to consider that he made the move. After Beaumont fouled to North, Kirk hit to Schwink, who threw to first, but Powers dropped the ball and Beaumont scored. Bacher doubled to left, scoring Fraile, and when Furl dropped the relay, Kirk spelled doom to Cleveland's chance to share first place with Beaumont.

With one gone, Gondolfo drew a life on North's error and Fraile was safe the same way. ## PEEWEE BEGAN AT 13

has been after me to quit for some time—so now I've done it. And it will stick, too. No come-backs for me."

Peewee hasn't decided what to do. Though he'd like some kind of outdoor job. Failing to get that, he and Callahan might work together to develop and handle some fighters.

Boxing Not So Bad. PEWEE quits the ring with only one faded mark indicating his profession—a flattened nose bridge. This, however, resulted from the operation rather than from the blows received. Peewee's ears are still in good shape.

"Would you do it all over again if you had the chance?" Peewee couldn't say about that. He rather thought he might.

"There's nothing I regret about my boxing experience," he said. "But as a way to make a living it's tough for a lot of boys. I think and always have thought that boxing is the greatest of all sports. I would certainly advise boys to learn to box, although not necessarily as a profession."

"Is the game honest?" "Well, I've been propositioned by some of the managers. Naturally there are punks in everything. But there are not as many of the crooks as some people think. Most of the boys are O. K. and do their best. Fans get a real run for their money in nearly every case."

Peewee went into the ring—to his sorrow. Curtin floored him three times and in his weakened condition the referee thought best to stop the fight, although Kaiser was on his feet at the time, the third round. That was the only knockout ever scored against Peewee during his long career of nearly 200 professional battles.

Peewee then shifted to Eddie Meade's management, and again he gained an entree to New York. But just about that time Meade and all his stable were suspended because Eddie did not please the commission in his handling of Champion Joe Lynch, and so Kaiser returned to finish out his career in St. Louis.

Broken Hand a Handicap. UNDOUBTEDLY Peewee would have had other "big shots" at fame had it not been for a brittle right hand. With his tremendous punching power, his mercurial began to give way. Peewee's right was almost nationally known, not only for its power but for its speed and directness. No hooks or swings for Peewee—just a straight shot at the mark.

Practures followed, however. These caused him to lose not only a lot of time, but considerable confidence. He was in constant fear that the old mauler would give way again.

During some fights, even though he did not suffer a break, he felt flashes of pain clear up to his shoulder, when his blows landed in a certain way. "Sometimes it would be several rounds before I could use my hand," Peewee explained.

A hesitancy in using his right developed. On occasions he had to finish out bouts with one hand practically helpless.

Last Manager His Best. HOWEVER, Kaiser enjoyed his greatest popularity at home since 1927. Peewee fought better during the last six years than at any time before, despite that certain right mitt.

"That was because of two things," Peewee explained. "One

King of the Amateurs. IN three years Kaiser became such a standout that there remained no amateur fighter in this vicinity worthy to meet him. And he entered the professional ranks, with the most promising outlook of any bantam this city ever developed.

Peewee got along famously and

CLAYTON'S STAR TO COMPETE IN FIVE EVENTS AT COLUMBIA MEET

Robert Ehrhardt, Clayton High School's track star, will be a busy athlete in the State outdoor championship meet to be held at Columbia, Mo., Saturday. Ehrhardt has qualified for five events, the 120-yard high hurdles; 220 low; high jump, pole vault and javelin throw. In the county championship meet here last Saturday, Ehrhardt won the two hurdle races; tied for first in the pole vault and placed second in the high jump to give him a team of 17 points.

Thus the fact that he will be try for honors in five events will be nothing new in his young life. He's done it ever since he has been at Clayton and has generally been regarded as "Clayton's one-man track team."

Ehrhardt, however, will be only one of the St. Louis district athletes who will try for honors at Columbia, since 11 local schools will be represented. Seven of these are in Class A, in which University City will defend its title and three in Class B. Brentwood is the lone Class C representative.

In addition to University City, the Class A representatives are Soldan, Roosevelt, Christian Brothers College, Webster Groves, Kirkwood and Normandy, while Clayton, St. Charles and Wellston will strive for honors in Class B.

The local stars who qualified for the Class B meet follow: 100-yard dash—Hunt, Clayton, and Bruner, St. Charles. 200-yard dash—Hunt, Clayton, and Bruner, St. Charles. 400-yard run—Boedeker and Barkins, Wellston. 800-yard run—Grady and Wiley, Wellston. 1200-yard high hurdles—Ehrhardt, Clayton, and Hoffman, St. Charles. 200-yard low hurdles—Ehrhardt, Clayton, and Moore, St. Charles. Pole vault—Ehrhardt, Clayton, and Wilson, St. Charles. Javelin—Wilson, St. Charles, and Webb, Clayton. High jump—Bruner, St. Charles and Hines, Wellston. 100-yard dash—Hunt, Clayton, and Bruner, St. Charles. 200-yard dash—Hunt, Clayton, and Bruner, St. Charles. 400-yard run—Boedeker and Barkins, Wellston. 800-yard run—Grady and Wiley, Wellston. 1200-yard high hurdles—Ehrhardt, Clayton, and Hoffman, St. Charles. 200-yard low hurdles—Ehrhardt, Clayton, and Moore, St. Charles. Pole vault—Ehrhardt, Clayton, and Wilson, St. Charles. Javelin—Wilson, St. Charles, and Webb, Clayton. High jump—Bruner, St. Charles and Hines, Wellston.

His hardest fights were those with Johnny Curtin; Pal Moore, when Pal was really a national factor; Midget Smith, one of the greatest light fighters of his day; Davey Abad and Freddie Miller, now champion.

Buddy Taylor was another of his opponents and it was in this fight that Kaiser broke his right hand for the fourth time. Kaiser tried to conceal his injury, but the referee insisted that he use his right hand or let the doctor examine it. The physician looked at it a moment and then waved Johnny out of the ring.

Peewee quits the boxing game with colors flying. He won his last three battles by knock-out. His last fight was with Eddie Huseman of Pekin, Ill., whom he flattened in one round.

Mat Card Tonight. Five matches, with Walter McMillan meeting Paul James in the feature and only final battle, will comprise a wrestling card at St. Paul's Social Center Hall, Ninth and Summit streets, in East St. Louis, tonight, starting at 8:30. The semiwindup will bring together Billy Scharbert and Louis Woolsey. The latter has agreed to try to pin Scharbert twice in 30 minutes.

Eureka Beats Riverview. The Eureka High School team pounded the offerings of Pitcher Myerford for 22 hits and defeated Riverview Garden, 20 to 9, in a County League baseball game yesterday. It was Eureka's fourth victory in five starts.

Chicago Race Fans Wager on Jockeys In "Daily Double"

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 4.—RILBIRDS around Chicago today decided to pick the winners of the second and third races to win the daily double worth $27.94. Tuesday, Jockey Eddie Arcaro rode the winners to complete the double, returning the lucky ones $19.44 for each two dollar bet ticket.

At Aurora Tuesday, Jockey Lennie Hendricks piloted winners home in the second and third races to complete a double worth $38.54, while yesterday A. Richards brought home a "double" paying $22.80.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Weather Bureau today forecast rain in Kentucky both Friday and Saturday, indicating a muddy track for the running of the Kentucky Derby.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4.—Ladysman, favorite to win the Kentucky Derby Saturday, was given his first introduction to the Churchill Downs track and paddock today. Like all the Derby eligibles, save Mr. Khayyam, which was worked out over a mile, Ladysman took an early morning gallop. That exercise was started by the chestnut colt being ridden into the "chute" from which the Derby race will start after jogging half a mile and galloping another half. Trainer Bud Stottler had Ladysman ridden into the paddock to get acquainted with the looks of things.

The colt, which arrived from Harve de Grace, Md., Tuesday, too late for a regular workout before Saturday, appeared to be fit and ready to race. He is expected to be entered with Pomponius, which accompanied him this morning. Pomponius is to be held in reserve in case anything should prevent Pomponius going.

Mr. Khayyam covered a mile in 1:40 flat. He was clocked at the half in 49-5 and the three-quarters in 1:16.

Other Candidates Gallop.

Head Play, Charley O, Trace Call, Dark Winter and many other eligibles were given long gallops during the morning and all are due to be "brezed out" over about three-eighths of a mile tomorrow morning and then rest until post time Saturday. Head Play galloped easily with the bandage that had protected a slight cut below his hock removed. At the stable it was said the cut was made by a glancing blow from the heels of another horse in Tuesday's race which Head Play won, but that it missed by a fraction of an inch being similar to the cut that put Burning Blaze out a year ago.

Little change is noted or even expected in the Derby situation, Ladysman still being 3-1 in the wire books, with the rest trailing in the way from 7 on Head Play to 50 on Big Red, Isiah, Spiccon and Sil Shot.

Not Fewer Than 14 to Start.

Present indications are that the overnight nominees will be comparatively light, too, not less than 14 and certainly not more than 20.

Ladysman, having shipped in fair shape, is sure. He apparently will be Head Play, Charley O and Sarada, another 10-1 choice, not to forget Mr. Khayyam, son of Omar, which did a 1-4 for a mile and a sixteenth in a track record in Maryland five days ago. This is only three-sixteenths off the Derby distance, so the inference is that Mr. Khayyam is not a bad boy at 10-1.

Kerry Patch, winner of the Belmont Futurity, should be ready to go. So should Brokers Tip, Pomponius, stable mate of the favorite, and Trace Call. Knockaway was had here the other day but Dark Winter may be deemed to be worth the $500 overnight fee; also Fair Rochester, Indianapolis, Silent Shot, Warren Jr., Strideaway and At Top, the filly.

Fares to Present Trophy.

Postmaster-General James Farley will present the gold trophy to the owner of the winner. Vice-President John Garner has notified Lieutenant-Governor A. B. Chandler that he will be unable to attend.

BEARS GAIN 5-1
VICTORY OVER
CONCORDIA NINE

Concordia Seminary's baseball nine had an "off" day yesterday afternoon, and Washington U. slipped over a 5-1 defeat on the Preachers in a seven-inning game at Liggett Field. It was the Bears' first victory in the three games of the local series.

Yesterday's contest was a "haywire" affair in more ways than one. It was a mixture of good hits, scratch hits, good pitching and fielding on the part of the Bears, and errors and "bonehead" plays by Concordia.

The Bears had two earned runs. One was in the third inning, when Meehan tallied on a hit by Bennett, and the other was in the next frame, Slumberg scoring on Schaperkott's safety. Slumberg probably would not have scored, however, had not Duwe, Concordia first baseman, started to walk off the diamond when he thought he had Schaperkott out at first.

Errors and a balk by Levenshagen gave Washington its other runs. Concordia's single score came in the second, Stenbeck counting when Elwell singled to center.

COMMONS WHAT
HE DID IN U. S. Park

British Premier Declares
Much Progress Was Made
in Conferences With President Roosevelt.

CHEERED WHEN HE ENTERS THE HOUSE

Head of Labor Party Says
Statement Is Meager —
Full Debate Scheduled for Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 4.—Enthusiastic
cheers greeted Prime Minister
Ramsay MacDonald as he entered
the House of Commons today to report to the members on his economic discussions with President Roosevelt in Washington. Macdonald announced that Britain favored the American proposal
for a tariff truce during the period
of the World Economic Conference
with safeguards for Britain's special
tariff position.
With tariff issues paramount in
the House, MacDonald made it clear that, while President Roosevelt, Edouard Herriot of France and he had agreed on plans for convening the World Economic Conference, the Washington talks
had brought no definite agreements in regard to policy. Nor had there been any solution of world problems, he said, although
the exchange of views was "most encouraging."
The Prime Minister announced
that war debts had been "frankly examined in all their aspects," but
he said that no fuller statement
was possible at the present time,
as the problem "necessarily has not
yet reached the stage of agreement."

Norman Davis in Gallery.
Norman H. Davis, United States
Ambassador at Large, who is representing President Roosevelt in Europe in the work of preparing
for the world economic conference,
sat in the gallery for distinguished
visitors.
"My conversations with President Roosevelt during the four days I was in Washington," MacDonald
told the Commons, "followed exactly on the lines which I indicated
to this house during the debate on adjournment on the thirteenth of last month."

I was anxious first of all to ascertain the President's views
upon the calling of the international economic conference," said MacDonald, "and finding that we
were in agreement and subsequently
that M. Herriot (France's special envoy to Washington) shared our opinion, we communicated with the Organizing Committee and June 12
has been fixed for the meeting of
the conference."

We discussed in some details, as I indicated in the speech to which I referred, the subjects which were
to be brought up at the conference,"
he went on.
These included the question of
tariffs, quotas, exchange controls
and stability in national currency.
A tariff truce during a sitting of
the conference was also considered. Our purpose was to ascertain by intimate discussion what
the prospects were of co-operation.

"Hands Completely Untied."
"We both shared the view that
our respective countries should enter the conference which is now
to meet so soon with hands completely untied," he said.
"The result of these exchanges
of views and examinations of problems was most encouraging."

"In view of the controversy
which has arisen with reference to the suggestion of a tariff truce, I had better say that I felt it my duty to point out how different is
the position of a country like our own from that of those which are already high tariff countries with policies of economic defense fully worked out and in operation."
While I welcomed the idea of a
truce during the period of the con-

GRIESEDECK SEEKS TO REOPEN BREWERY

Similar Petition by Old Appleton Plant Taken Under Advisement.

Following testimony yesterday on the application of the Griesedieck Brewing Co. to manufacture beer at their plant at Nineteenth street and Shennandoah avenue, Sam
S. Haley, Superintendent of Permits in the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, indicated a permit would be issued. The application of the Old Appleton Brewery & Ice Co. at Old Appleton, Mo., was taken under advisement.

The hearings were held before Haley and Prohibition Administrator George H. Wark at the bureau's offices in the Title Guaranty Building, Wark concurring in Haley's indication of action. Both pointed out that there had been no violation of prohibition laws at the brewery since 1924, when Federal agents closed
it for illegal manufacture.

Edward Griesedieck, vice-president of the brewery, testified yesterday that the property was valued at about $1,000,000, was unsuited for anything else than the manufacture of beer and that it was reopened between 200 and 300 men would be employed.

The Old Appleton brewery, 110 miles south of St. Louis, proved to be the source of "Canadian" beer sold in St. Louis when prohibition agents raided it last August. Agents have reported more recently that Bennie McGovern, former prizefighter, who was shot by unidentified gunmen last Jan. 20 as he was driving his automobile in Richmond Highlands, has been directing improvements at the brewery. Proprietors of more expensive speakers in St. Louis have told customers their wares were supplied by McGovern.

DR. WALTER R. MILES HONORED

Yale Professor Is Elected to Academy of Science.

By the Associated Press.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4.—

The election of Dr. Walter R. Miles, professor of psychology in the Yale University school of medicine, to membership in the National Academy of Science, was announced here yesterday.

Dr. Miles came to Yale from Stanford University in 1930 on a one-year's leave of absence, and was appointed to his present position a year later. He is widely known for his studies of the effect of drugs on the human system, including studies of the effect of alcohol on human efficiency. A study on the relation of age on human ability was the subject of his address as president of the American Psychological Association at its last meeting.

VAN BOMBED AFTER MOVER
REFUSES TO JOIN ASSOCIATION

Fred Crawford Says Two Men Told Him "You Will Get the

Eight hours after Fred Crawford, independent moving van operator, refused to join an association a bomb exploded in one of his trucks, parked in a lot back of his home, 3059 Cass avenue.
The explosion, at 1 a. m. today, damaged the truck $200 and broke windows in the house. Crawford told police that late yesterday afternoon two men, whom he named,
asked him to join a new association of movers, which they said they were organizing. He refused and one of the men remarked, "You will get the works," Crawford reported. Police are seeking the men.

Formerly at a 3¢ premium...
now the price of ordinary gas

SUPER SHELL was originally made to give special performance to big cars. Priced at 3 cents extra per gallon, motorists cheerfully paid $8,513,783.88 above the price of ordinary gasoline for its super qualities—and got value received.

Today, the "3 cents extra" is gone. Super Shell is the price of ordinary gasoline. And it is even further improved.

Shell asked 112,327 of you motorists, in our service stations and in your homes, to name the qualities you wanted most in a gasoline. Super Shell has been made to fit your exact requirements.

Extra fast starting—hair-trigger pick-up—surging power in high-mileage—and an anti-knock rating that is higher than any gasoline to which Ethyl has not been added. These are the qualities you said you wanted in your gasoline—they're there in Super Shell.

Mileage is its outstanding quality! By a special process of refining Super Shell, Shell has eliminated
all the waste parts from a gasoline, leaving, in concentrated form, only those parts your engine needs.

Change to Super Shell. It is colored golden for your protection. Results will prove its economy for you.

● If you prefer an ethylized fuel, it is obtainable
under the name of Super-Shell Ethyl—an improved gasoline with ethyl added. A double premium gasoline at a single premium price.

"Pack my bag, Georgia, and fill up the Cadillac. And be sure it's Super Shell.
A fast, cross-country trip is one place
where Super Shell's superior speed, pick-up and power really stand out."

"Super Shell more than lives up to its advertising claims. It certainly has wonderful power and quick pick-up.
I am going to save money because my car gets more miles to the gallon on this new gasoline."

MACDONALD TELLS COMMONS WHAT HE DID IN U. S.

British Premier Declares
Much Progress Was Made
in Conferences With President Roosevelt.

CHEERED WHEN HE ENTERS THE HOUSE

Statement Is Meager—
Full Debate Scheduled for Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 4.—Enthusiastic
cheers greeted Prime Minister
Ramsay MacDonald as he entered
the House of Commons today to report to the members on his economic discussions with President Roosevelt in Washington.

MacDonald announced that Britain favored the American proposal
for a tariff truce during the period
of the World Economic Conference
with safeguards for Britain's special
tariff position.

With tariff issues paramount in
the House, MacDonald made it clear that, while President Roosevelt, Edward Herriot of France
and he had agreed on plans for
convening the World Economic Conference, the Washington talks
had brought no definite agreement in regard to policy. Nor had there been any solutions of
world problems, he said, although
the exchange of views was "most
encouraging."

The Prime Minister announced
that war debts had been "frankly
examined in all their aspects," but
he said that no fuller statement
was possible at the present time,
as the problem "necessarily has not
ment."

Norman Davis in Gallery.
Norman H. Davis, United States
Ambassador at Large, who is representing President Roosevelt in Europe in the work of preparing
for the world economic conference,
sat in the gallery for distinguished
visitors.

"My conversations with President Roosevelt during the four days
was in Washington," MacDonald
told the Commons, "followed exactly on the lines which I indicated
to this house during the debate on adjustment on the thirteenth of last month."

"I was anxious first of all to ascertain the President's views
upon the calling of the international economic conference," said MacDonald, "and finding that we
were in agreement and subsequently
that M. Herriot (France's special envoy to Washington) shared our
Organizing Committee and June 12
has been fixed for the meeting of
the conference."

"We discussed in some details, as I indicated in the speech to which I
referred, the subjects which were
to be brought up at the conference,"
he went on.

These included the question of
tariffs, quotas, exchange controls
and stability in national currency.
A tariff truce during a sitting of
the conference was also considered. Our purpose was to ascertain by intimate discussion what
the prospects were of co-operation.

"Hands Completely Untied."
"We both shared the view that
our respective countries should enter the conference which is now
to meet so soon with hands completely untied," he said.

"The result of these exchanges
of views and examinations of problems was most encouraging."
"In view of the controversy
which has arisen with reference to
the suggestion of a tariff truce, I
had better say that I felt it my
duty to point out how different is
the position of a country like our
own from that of those which are
already high tariff countries with
policies of economic defense fully
worked out and in operation."
"While I welcomed the idea of a

GREAT BRITAIN INCREASES FUND FOR STABILIZATION OF MONEY TO $1,365,000,000

Parliament Raises Exchange Control Allowance—"No Connection With U. S.
Going Off Gold Standard."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 4.—Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, moving a resolution in the House of Commons today to increase the exchange equalization account from $150,000,000 to $250-000,000 ($1,365,000,000), declared that the proposed increase had "nothing whatever to do with the circumstance that America has gone off gold." The Chancellor's motion was agreed to without a record vote.

"I am sorry to see, in spite of my emphatic statement in my budget speech," the Chancellor said, "that some American journals have represented this addition to the exchange equalization account as being in some way directed against that country."

"I do not know whether what I said on that subject was transmitted across the Atlantic together with the statement of the intention itself. If not, I regard it as extremely unfortunate that partial and mutilated accounts of important statements of this kind should be transmitted and then become the subject of misunderstanding between two great and friendly nations."

This comment evoked cheers from the house.

"Denies Any Threat to Dollar."
"Whether my fortune will be better on this occasion than on the last one I do not know," Chamberlain continued. "Whatever happens over there I feel sure I can convince the House of Commons of the literal truth of that statement, because in fact the purpose for which this addition was required is not one which can be used for the purpose with which I am being charged by certain American journals, namely of forcing down the value of the pound relative to the dollar."

"The real fact is that the purpose of the fund is not directed to any permanent alteration in exchange value of the pound."

Chamberlain said it was not the intention of the Government to use the equalization account to try to alter the permanent level of exchange either up or down.

He explained that there were seasonal fluctuations of the pound strong in the spring and weak in the autumn—and if these fluctuations were left to themselves there would be a see-saw in the value of the pound which would be unbalancing to trade in Britain.

These fluctuations, he continued, are considerably reinforced by the action of speculators, and it is a reasonable precaution to build up resources in the spring in order to stem a too rapid fall in the autumn.

New, Unexpected Phenomenon.
If that was all the Government had to deal with, he continued,
then $150,000,000 would be sufficient, but the Government is faced with a new phenomenon, namely, the flight of refugees capital to London.

The habitation of this capital in London is entirely temporary, the Chancellor asserted. People have sent their money here because they are alarmed at conditions in their own countries, he said, but when confidence has been restored it is likely this capital will return home.

He explained it was because of this new phenomenon that he decided to ask for an increase in the equalization fund.

The fund, some dealers believe, is working in London, New York and Paris, although its operations are secret. Market authorities believe official control aimed at keeping the American dollar and the French franc from fluctuating too widely has been apparent in the exchange market recently.

Regarding the American gold export action, the News Chronicle
said:

"In this blow to the sanctity of private debt contracts, America is establishing a dangerous precedent.
Her example will hardly encourage her foreign debtors to try to continue to fulfill their obligations.
What is sauce to the goose is sauce
to the gander."

The exchange market was quiet
today, with the American dollar moderately supported at between $3.90 and $3.92, compared to yesterday's closing quotation of $3.924.

The franc opened steady around yesterday's close of $5.05 to the pound.
The dollar closed at $3.914. The franc closed at $4.71.

The dollar closed on the Paris
Bourse today at 214.5 francs, 10
centimes lower than last night's official closing quotation. The pound also was weaker, closing at $4.55.

The drainage on the gold of the bank of France has stopped, at least temporarily. The week which ended April 28 shows an increase of $1,276,000 francs. The bank now has a total of $8,866,000,000 francs gold, with 77.57 per cent coverage.

The bank's report indicated that the British equalization fund is taking less metal.

FAREWELL RECEPTION FOR RUTH BRYAN OWEN

She Promises to Perform Duties in Manner to Keep Diplomacy Open to Women.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, recently appointed Minister to Denmark, pledged herself last night to perform her new duties so well that the field of diplomacy will remain open to women.

Mrs. Owen spoke at a farewell meeting arranged in her honor by the League for Political Education.

Mrs. Owen, who plans to sail for Copenhagen on May 11, reviewed a visit she made to Denmark some time ago, when she conducted a "caravan" consisting of herself and five children through the country.

While none of them spoke Danish they had no difficulty in buying supplies, she said.

"We could always go to the shop and point to the things that we wanted to buy," she explained, "and then hand our purse to the shopkeeper and let him help himself.
And I was assured that in all Denmark there was no shopkeeper who would take a penny more than his due, if you handed him your purse, and I think that speaks well for Denmark."

"You know," she added, "I think there are places in the United States where one could not do that."

Referring to an observation made by Dr. John H. Finley, a previous speaker, that everyone in Copenhagen rides bicycles, Mrs. Owen said she finally would have an opportunity to "exhibit my own skill on the bicycle, which has been hidden under a bushel these many years."

ROOSEVELT TO DEDICATE "WATERWAY ON TRIP TO FAIR"

Accepts Two Invitations, "Congress Willing," Exposition Opening Set Up for Him.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Roosevelt today tentatively accepted invitations to open the Chicago Exposition on May 27 and to dedicate on the same day the formal opening of the Great Lakes to the Gulf Waterway.

The waterway dedication also will be held in Chicago. The latter invitation was delivered today by a congressional committee headed by Speaker Rainey, at the time a Chicago delegation with Rufus C.
Davis as its spokesman, asked the President to formally open the exposition.

The date for the opening of the exposition was advanced from June 1 to May 27 to permit the President to attend. Earlier he had accepted an invitation to deliver the diplomas to the graduating class at the Naval Academy in Annapolis on June 1.

Davis said the President told his group that he would come, "Congress willing." It was added at the White House that the President would attend the Chicago fair unless unforeseen developments arose.

The congressional delegation which asked the Chief Executive to dedicate the waterway on the same day that the fair opens, included in addition to Rainey, Senator Clark (Dem.), Missouri; Representatives
Reid, Britten and Sabath of Illinois.

THE appointments and furnishings of this Mortuary are new, but
of such good taste that one is instantly at ease. Hence the services proceed without distractions. Peace is realized and faith is sustained. The mellowing music of the Harp completes the serenity of the occasion.

COLOMBIA REPORTS ATTACK ON GUNBOATS BY PERUVIANS

Bogota Says Troops on Land Were Later Routed; Two Killed
in Clash.

BOGOTA, Colombia, May 4.—Delayed dispatches from the Leticia area yesterday said that Colombian gunboats proceeding down the Putumayo River were attacked by Peruvian troops April 30. Two Peruvians were killed and one Colombian sailor wounded. The Colombian vessels returned the fire and troops on the ships disembarked, routing the Peruvians, the reports
said.

BALBOA, Canal Zone, May 4.—
The Peruvian gunboat Almirante Grau and two submarines passed through the Panama Canal yesterday for Havana. Canal officials refused a request of Capt. J. A.
Parales, Peruvian naval officer who has been here a month, to dock the vessels.

Capt. Parales declined to answer when asked whether the craft were en route to the upper Amazon region where the Peru and Colombia have been in conflict several months over the Leticia territory.
Following the refusal to permit drydocks, a protest was made on the ground that two Colombian boats have been under repairs at a pier since last month. Zone officials then halted work on those boats, which formerly were banana carriers.

Licensing Provision Violation of Fourteenth Amendment, Judge at Hammond Decides.

By the Associated Press.
HAMMOND, Ind., May 4.—Judge
Virgil S. Reiter of the Lake Superior Court today held the Indiana law regulating the manufacture and sale of 3.2 beer to be unconstitutional.

The judge made his ruling in the case brought by Abe Rosen of Hammond to restrain State officials from interfering with his sale of beer. Rose, proprietor of a bottling works here, had been denied a wholesaler's license.

Judge Reiter said he based his decision on section 6 of the law, which provides for appointment of a state excise director with power to grant licenses to the private importers, wholesalers and retailers.
The judge held this to be in violation of the fourteenth constitutional amendment, which provides that no state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the rights of citizens of the United States.

In a verbal opinion, the judge held, however, that the various sections of the law are so interwoven that his finding served to declare the entire law unconstitutional.

Deputy Attorney-General Patrick indicated an appeal would be taken to the Supreme Court.

IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS LAST WEEK NOTED BY ROPER

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 4.—A definite improvement in the business situation during the last week is reported by Secretary Roper on a basis of compilations showing continued rises in the commodity market and improved industrial activity.

The Secretary pointed out, however, that much of the increase in prices had resulted from a growing desire to shift cash and bank deposits into equities.

"It is only when these goods are consumed in satisfying some healthy human want," the Secretary said, "and employment is fur-reduced as result of the necessity of replacing them that society makes progress."

"Nevertheless, the improved statistical position of a number of commodities has warranted increased prices. In many instances the relation of existing supply to demand has been improved. It is also encouraging to note that some part of the price improvement has resulted from the ordering of goods for immediate consumption, and that further expansion in some lines of business during the last week brought the general level of activity into new high ground for the recovery period."

Reservations on Tariff Truce.
William Phillips, Under-Secretary of State, said today the French position toward a tariff truce suggested by the American Government contained three reservations.

Besides stipulating that France must retain freedom to raise tariffs
in event of foreign currency depreciation, the French statement of policy received at the State Department provides that the truce shall not apply to trade agreements which are now before Parliament, and that all the principal Powers
must agree to the truce.

that it was too early to state Italy's position on a tariff truce, but added that "Mussolini has always been in favor of lowering the barriers between nations."

He pointed out also that Italy
had maintained a stable currency
since 1927 and that its stability would be defended "as strenuously and as firmly as can be imagined."

would like the others to be stable."

I know that my retirement will make no difference to its editorial principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely praising news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong; whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Brief for the Farm Bill.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
YOUR opposition to the farm bill because it is class legislation designed to benefit the farmer at the expense of the consumer, is not well taken. This country has adopted the policy of tariff protection and I cannot see anything but class legislation in a tariff levied to protect a certain industry; and who, but the consuming public, pays the profits of the manufacturer and the higher wages of the employees of the protected industry?

As your columns have frequently pointed out, the farmer is compelled to buy in a protected or artificial market and must sell in competition with the world. There you have the heart of the whole question. The business men and organized wage earners have been enjoying the benefits of an artificial price system at the expense of the farmers and unorganized workers. Wages have been reduced but 10 or 15 per cent and in many cases they are still 50 per cent above the pre-war level, while farm products bring less than half as much.

I am not contending for a reduction of wages; on the contrary, I believe that the way to get the proper perspective of this farm bill question is to look at it as a wage increase proposition, for that is what it really amounts to.

This bill may not work out as planned, but you cannot consistently oppose it on the ground that it increases prices and at the same time advocates maintenance of the higher wages enjoyed by certain classes of urban workers by other.

E. W. SCHAEFERKOTTER.

For 30-Hour Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE 30-hour, five-day week, with a minimum wage, as proposed by Miss Frances Perkins, should be enacted into law. It is the only practical way of solving the unemployment problem. If a law of this nature is not put into effect, the millions of jobless workers, constituting the real forgotten men, are doomed to a state of continued privation and suffering. While some action seems certain to aid those who have property, such as the small home owner, owners of farms, bankers, etc., the propertyless unemployed workers are little considered, although they comprise the most essential part of our social structure. They make up the producers of the very essential social values, and if they were given a just return for labor service rendered, their mass buying power would soon lift the country to normal production and consumption.

LUCILLE M. KAEMMERER.

Employment Object Lessons.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE machine, mass production and consolidation have reduced the available hours of work. The sensible thing to do would be to find out how many heads of families and others who depend on work there are and divide the hours available by that number. But ours is a land of unlimited individualism.

The Brown family looks up the house in the morning and gets in the family machine. Father has dropped off at the place of business, mother at her place of employment, daughter at the beauty parlor, son at the postoffice and Junior at high school.

Jones, after tacking on a new sole, goes out early to make the rounds. Everywhere he finds the Browns entrenched, and so must continue to accept support from the State. Junior Jones left school three years ago, but up to now he has not got to first base or indeed, to bat.

The Hon. Spouter, after putting his whole family, his wife's family and his wife's mother's family on the public payroll, finds there is still a vacant place in the space allotted him to feed his family. It would be just the thing for Junior Jones. However, Spouter remembers that Brown contributed to his campaign fund, and so Junior Jones is taken from high school to fill the place.

And so, in spite of the New Deal, the depression continues, unemployment is as bad as ever and the amount needed to support the unemployed increases.

But we still have our individualism! Belleville.
L. E. HARTON.

Tracking Down the Depression.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
KINDLY show a couple of poor devils and out shoe-makers and research men a bit of space to inform a waiting world how to cure the depression, panic or what-have-you.

Myself and "pal" decided that we would give the downtown bunch the once-over, so we took account of 1000 men who passed us, 500 on Olive between Sixth and Twelfth and 500 on Washington between Broadway and Ninth. We found that 75 per cent of these well-dressed people needed new shoes. Run-over and out of shape, soles worn and uppers rough, run-down heels, and very badly in need of new shoes.

Now, why don't these men buy shoes? If one-half of the men who need shoes can and afford to buy would do so, we could start our factories.

We also took stock of the women, and found their shoes were about 75 per cent good, so they are doing their duty.

SOUP BONE.

A GREAT EXPERIMENT.

That the country has made up its mind to experiment with inflation is beyond question. Whether liberal or conservative, rich or poor, the people are more nearly unanimous for taking this way out of the depression than they have been upon any score for a great many years.

It is not, therefore, altogether fair to say that President Roosevelt has led the country to the brink of this adventure. The country may be more truly said to have forced him into it. We learned when Mr. Wilson was President how powerless any man in the White House is to withstand the onrush of so emotional a people as are those of the United States. They carried him into the World War, as at other times they carried President Madison into the War of 1812 and President McKinley into the war with Spain. They have now carried President Roosevelt into what is perhaps the greatest financial experiment that any nation has made.

The popular psychology is simple enough. After more than three and one-half years of hard times, the process of deflation has become unendurable. It is significant that on the very day the lower house of Congress passed the inflation bill, the National Farmers' Holiday Association met at Des Moines to consider a food strike, while at another point in Iowa a military court was trying farmers for attempting to hang a judge who had ordered the foreclosure of farm mortgages. The patience of the people is exhausted. They want action. If the Government will not act, they will act themselves.

This is not a pleasant situation, nor is it one untroubled with sinister possibilities. The pressure upon Washington is terrific. It goes without saying that in doing so many things in such feverish haste, the Government may make mistakes. In our opinion, it has made a mistake in passing the farm bill. No good can come from assessing one element of the population to help another. We have already had this evil in abuses of the tariff. The business of the Government is to get rid of the one, not to compound it.

But the farm plan is to be tried, and we will rely upon the President's promise to abandon it if it does not succeed. There is much less necessity now for stimulation of farm prices than there was when the bill was introduced. Conditions of nature and the anticipation of inflation have gone far toward closing the gulf between what the farmer gets for his products and what he pays for his necessities. The whole commodity market is rising, and farm prices are rising with it. Wool has risen 15 cents a pound. Cotton is up some 4 cents a pound, wheat almost 40 cents a bushel.

Nevertheless, we appreciate deeply the dreadful difficulties of Congress in such an emergency. We are not in agreement with any artificial stimulation of farm prices; but we realize that with the whole agricultural population seething it was necessary for Congress to make some gesture of relief to farmers. If the plan adopted is unsound, it is still on all fours with some of the earlier plans for the relief of banks and railroads. We are hopeful that the fortunes which enter into the fortunes of agriculture will come to its relief before the Government floods the country with all the measures and weighers who are to tell the farmer how much he can grow and see that he does not exceed his quota.

We are disposed to believe that inflation is upon much sounder ground. Certainly, it is no new thing in the world. Most of the countries beggared by the great war have used this means of lightening their burden of domestic debt. It was inevitable that we should do the same thing. We assumed a debt of approximately 200 billions of dollars in the great expansion induced by the war. Instead of reducing it by inflation, as other nations have done, we have increased it by the process of deflation. The result has been a paralysis such as the country had never known. It is doubtful if any nation not devastated by a foreign foe has ever experienced such widespread stagnation.

By investing the President with discretionary powers, Congress has adopted the surest safeguard against too much inflation. The French, who inflated their currency 80 per cent, have proved that inflation can be stopped at a point when control is absolute. The President may or may not use all the inflationary powers placed in his hands. The national economy may be righted without going so far as to let metalism or reducing the gold content of the dollar. Expert opinion believes the war upon low prices can be won by expanding the national credit and engaging in large expenditures for public works. If so, the resulting higher prices will revive industry and business without resort to more drastic remedies.

At any rate, the United States is launched upon a great experiment. It is one in the course of which we may learn much more than we now know about the national credit. We know what can be done with the credit of such a country as the United States in time of war. We are now to learn what can be done with it in time of peace.

NEW YORK CARRIES ON.

New York has undertaken to curb the ruthless exploitation of women and children in industry. The Wald bill, now a law by Gov. Lehman's signature, is called a minimum wage law. It requires that salaries paid women and children shall be "commensurate with the value of the service rendered." It has set up machinery for its enforcement. Violation is to be punishable by fine and imprisonment. The measure has the approval of Secretary of Labor Perkins, who, while State Industrial Commissioner of New York, appeared in support of it before a legislative committee.

New York is, and long has been, a progressive State in the field of social service legislation. It was a pioneer in fixing the length of woman's working day. Its nine-hour day for women was one of the many shots heard round the world in the tempestuous presidential campaign of 1912. A test case was made of it, the court holding it unconstitutional, a ruling that was said to have inspired the plank in the Progressive platform for recall of judicial decisions. It originally moved the redoubtable Col. Roosevelt to a blaring fury.

In that high, piercing voice which, in emotional stress, was almost a shriek, he screamed: "The Court of Appeals of New York has held that the people of New York cannot say how many hours a day the women of New York shall work. I say they can." Twenty-one years have rolled, scored and dearly dragged by since the thunders of our political Armageddon, and the daring proposals of T. R. have, in many instances, become the quaint fashions of an old, naive day. And New York is carrying on as one of our best-governed states. Gov. Lehman is maintaining the long tradition of enlightened executive direction established by such distinguished predecessors as Hughes, Whitman, Smith and the two Roosevelts, Theodore and Franklin D.

REDUCING BUREAUCRACY'S STAFF.

Among the economy measures recommended to Congress by Budget Director Douglas is a provision requiring that all civil service employees of the Government who have held their positions 30 years or longer shall be "automatically separated from the service," and be compensated by the annuities provided in the Civil Service Retirement Act. This proposal is opposed by the National Federation of Federal Employees, which points out that compulsory retirement will remove from the service 15,000 experienced employees, many of whom are able and would like to continue their work, and that the pensions would cost the Government $20,000,000 a year.

The object of the administration proposal is to reduce the overstaffing of our Federal bureaucracy. The Government in 1922 had 613,941 employees, not counting the military, services or legislative and judicial branches. Including these, there are 925,000 persons getting their living from the Government, almost one of every 100 citizens, or two of every 100 employed workers. This imposing figure in civil employees is an increase from 570,000 in 1911, from 35,300 in 1851. The increase has been at a rate far greater than that of the population, national wealth or tax receipts. The Government's payroll in 1930-31 was $1,600,000,000, a figure reduced by 15 per cent in last year's economy bill. The services are tremendously overstaffed, and taxpayers are rightfully demanding a decrease in the number of feeders at the public trough. There are, for instance, 4000 Government disbursing officers; Comptroller-General McCall estimates the work could be done as effectively by 35 or 40 men.

Yet discharging Government employees, unless done judiciously, means additions to the army of unemployed. For this reason, the decision is made to drop employees who will have a means of support from their annuities. Government employees are divided into two groups of equal size: those receiving more and those less than $2000 a year. Those marked for compulsory retirement are undoubtedly all in the $2000-plus group. Yet, taking $2000 as the average, there will be a gross saving of $36,000,000. Subtracting $20,000,000 for pensions leaves at least $16,000,000 net saving. Nor will the Government lose the service of indispensable workers, for the bill specifically provides that the President or Congress may designate workers who will be kept.

Thus the plan avoids indiscriminate slashing, prevents adding Federal workers to the bread lines and provides for keeping needed workers, while making a frontal attack on the huge Federal payroll.

NEWS REEL.

Oklahoma legislators get pay of $2 a day after 60 days of session, and pages in Oklahoma Legislature continue to get $5 a day; Beer Commissioner Mulrooney of New York warns brewers of penalties if beer does not contain full 3.2 per cent of alcohol, and Federal Government warns brewers of penalties if beer goes over 3.2 per cent of alcohol; Argentina's envoy calls at White House to discuss trade agreements, and England makes favorable trade agreement with Argentina; Chancellor Hitler of Germany orders nudist movement abolished, and French Government sets aside island as colony for nudists from all over world; Tulsa (Ok.) man, seeking divorce, says wife discharged 75 cooks and housemaids in seven years, and New York woman has had same housemaid for 29 years; 3-month-old son of Libby Holman Reynolds is awarded $200,000 share of father's estate, and children in Pennsylvania mills go on strike against pay of 50 cents to $2 a week; three baseball players are suspended for fighting at game in Washington, and two pugilists are suspended for not fighting at contest in Cleveland.

MISSOURI AND THE NATIONAL BAR.

Something which Missouri laymen may not know and our lawyers are likely to forget is the important part Missouri played in the formation of the American Bar Association and its conduct through its early years. This is brought out in "American Bar Leaders," a collection of biographical sketches of the first 50 presidents of the American Bar Association, by James Grafton Rogers, published in commemoration of the association's semi-centennial.

The first president of the association was James Overton Broadhead, circuit-riding practitioner of the rough-and-tumble school, Missouri legislator, District Attorney, Congressman and special prosecutor in the "whiskey ring" scandal, who emigrated to Missouri 100 years ago from Charlottesville, Va., where he was born in the shadow of Monticello during Jefferson's last years. For its twelfth president, the national bar again turned to St. Louis. He was Henry Hitchcock, circuit-riding companion of Broadhead, who came from Alabama by way of Yale to found and direct for many years the St. Louis Law School, now part of Washington University. James Hagerman, son of the Missouri frontier, admitted to its bar at 17, for a quarter century a leader of St. Louis lawyers, headed the association during the World's Fair. Five years later, he was followed by the late Frederick William Lehmann, scholarly Solicitor-General under Taft and possessor of one of the nation's most brilliant legal minds.

Thus, four presidents during the American Bar Association's first half-century were Missourians. In a group of 25 states, only New York and Illinois have produced more. This reminder of Missouri's significant contribution should inspire the better element in the State's bar to increase the vigor of its campaign to improve professional practices.

EXPOSING THE RACKETEERS.

A particularly worth-while feature now running in the Post-Dispatch Daily Magazine is the series of articles printed under the caption, "Look Out! It's a Racket." Each day some scheme for swindling the unsuspecting public is exposed. Many of these rackets, as those who have followed the articles have found out, are perpetrated by unscrupulous persons who are taking advantage of the depression by preying on the public's sympathy for what appear to be victims of unemployment. If it is distressing to learn how much of such misrepresentation is afoot, it is good to know what the devices are and thus to be armed against them. There are too many truly needy persons these days and too many worthy causes lacking for necessary funds to permit the deflection of well-intentioned donations, large or small, into the hands of the professional dead-beat, however pitiful his tale or doleful his appearance.

BON VOYAGE, UNCLE!

Irving Fisher Explains Reflation

Because dollar has swollen 75 per cent in value, our debts have grown from 160 to 280 billions; only escape from greater depression is revaluation, economist says; purchasing power of money, not its weight, is real issue; writer praises Roosevelt for understanding problem; thinks he will stop inflation when equilibrium is reached.

Irving Fisher, Professor of Economics, Yale University, in the New York Times.

PASSAGE of the so-called and misnamed "inflation" bill, and other recent events, have bewildered the public, who wonder what it is all about.

It is all about a swollen dollar, a dollar 75 per cent more valuable than the dollar was before the depression and the swelling of which is practically synonymous with the depression. It was swollen by the efforts to pay debts. The internal debts in the United States were about 200 billion dollars in 1929. The far too much relatively to our national wealth, income and gold, and a third more than the debts of 1922. The very effort to liquidate this huge debt has not liquidated it even in part. On the contrary, it has actually aggravated it.

It is true that the debt has nominally been reduced. If one counts only the dollars of debt and forgets the dollars in which the debt is due, he gets the impression that there has been some real liquidation—from about 200 to about 160 billions; but we must not forget that each of these 160 billion dollars is now swollen 75 per cent as compared with each of the 200 billions. It follows that, in terms of 1929 dollars, our debt is now 280 billions, or 40 per cent more than the 200 with which we started the depression.

Evidently, if the 200 billions was too big in 1929 and precipitated the depression, the 280 billions now is still more too big, in reference to our present wealth, income and gold. The same causes which have brought about the depression will tend to bring about more depression. The only escape is the escape which has finally been sought—reflation.

The farmer's dollar has swollen even more than 75 per cent. No wonder he can't pay his mortgages. That is why he now defies the law and the Judge. He knows that his plight is not his own fault.

While ex-Secretary Mills and Senator Glass complain of inflation, as implying technical breach of contract, and demand that, cost what it may, the farmer and Uncle Sam must pay "as nominated in the bond," the farmer complains of the deflation which is so unjust to him.

So we are witnessing a head-on collision between two concepts of the dollar. One group thinks of inflation, as Glass does, as a "dishonor." The other group thinks of deflation as an outrage which must be remedied by enough reflation to make just debts payable justly.

The one group conceives of our dollar in its legal sense, as a fixed weight of gold, and takes for granted that this fixity is a real fixity. The other thinks of our dollar, not as a fixed weight, but as purchasing power, and points out that while this is not constant, it ought to be. The one group clings to form; the other group to substance.

Technically aside, what the dollar weighs does not matter. It is what it buys which matters, and the variation in which has caused the depression. Without correcting the tremendous aberration in what the dollar buys, there can be no recovery for bankruptcies, not only of banks, but insurance companies, municipalities, states and Uncle Sam himself. Only one thing can save us—reflation.

Fortunately, we have a President who sees this and is willing to break with any tradition in order to preserve our national existence. Mills and Glass are loath to do this and do not see the necessity. Their methods have been tried and have not worked. The most conspicuous thing about their statements, as reported, is the absence of any reference to the purchasing power of the dollar, its commodity value, the price level or index numbers.

Mills' views and Glass' have little else in common, and could be used to offset each other if the debate were still on. Mills approves of the open-market feature of the bill and condemns the greenback feature. Glass disapproves the open-market feature and thinks the greenback feature the most defensible.

Economists who have studied price levels are just as much opposed to inflation as Mills or Glass can possibly be. They are opposed also to deflation. They are for—first, last and all the time—as much constancy as possible. At present, this means corrective reflation as speedily as possible, and whether it be by the devaluation method or by any other. After this correction, these economists will join with Mills and Glass in fighting any inflation; and our President will, I firmly believe, join in.

At present, this means corrective reflation as speedily as possible, and whether it be by the devaluation method or by any other. After this correction, these economists will join with Mills and Glass in fighting any inflation; and our President will, I firmly believe, join in.

Mill's views and Glass' have little else in common, and could be used to offset each other if the debate were still on. Mills approves of the open-market feature of the bill and condemns the greenback feature. Glass disapproves the open-market feature and thinks the greenback feature the most defensible.

Economists who have studied price levels are just as much opposed to inflation as Mills or Glass can possibly be. They are opposed also to deflation. They are for—first, last and all the time—as much constancy as possible. At present, this means corrective reflation as speedily as possible, and whether it be by the devaluation method or by any other. After this correction, these economists will join with Mills and Glass in fighting any inflation; and our President will, I firmly believe, join in.

A Woman and Her Gold

A WOMAN writes to the New York Times saying she is 51 years old, has worked since she was 14, and has saved about $31,000. Two years ago she lost her job, but, with her money earning 4 per cent, she had felt she could live for the rest of her life. "A few months ago," she goes on to say, "I became very much disturbed over the financial situation in this country and decided to withdraw my money from savings banks, convert it into gold and place it in safe deposit boxes."

After March 6 at the call of the Government, she turned in her gold and now holds Federal Reserve notes. She writes to ask what is to become of her if the dollar is eventually stabilized at a lower gold value. She feels this would mean "the confiscation of a part of the value of my gold without due process of law and compensation to me for the value of my money."

This is a very sincere expression of a feeling that must be shared by many persons. This woman provides a perfect test of the problem confronting the country. For it is plain that any policy which did not resolutely protect the honest savings of a lifetime of labor would be intolerably unjust.

Let us begin by considering her action in the past few months. She became alarmed about the banks. Surely the events showed that her alarm was justified. She converted her savings into gold. That was then her legal right. She has now returned the gold, but she claims the currency she has received must be kept as valuable as the gold.

Now, this woman, without realizing it, is asking for a special privilege. If everyone in the United States had tried to act as she did, less than 150,000 persons could have converted their $31,000 into gold. The rest could not have had gold because there was not nearly enough gold to redeem all the savings of the American people.

This woman cannot, in justice, demand that her dollars should be more valuable than the dollars of her fellow citizens. But she has, I think, two very real claims upon the Government. The first is that the banks in which she now places her savings shall under no circumstances be permitted to close. It seems perfectly clear that when the Government reopened the banks, it assumed a complete moral obligation to the depositors of those banks. There ought not to be the slightest hesitation in fulfilling this obligation.

The second claim, it seems to me, is that the purchasing power of her dollar should not be reduced below the equivalent of what it purchased when she was earning it. I do not think she is entitled to a dollar which will buy goods at the bankruptcy level of last February. On the other hand, she ought not to have inflated upon her dollar like that of June, 1932, which, though it was a gold dollar, was so exorbitantly inflated that it would buy at wholesale only two-fifths of what it bought in 1932.

In other words, the obligation of the Government to this woman is not to keep her savings as valuable as gold was in February, 1933. Nobody, not the most ardent opponent of the present policy, desires that. But the Government ought to protect her savings against having as little value as the gold dollar had in June, 1932. It ought to provide her with a dollar which, in terms of purchasing power, lies between these two extremes of inflation and deflation, and ought to provide her with banks where she can keep her dollars with perfect safety.

CAULFIELD URGES NEW STATE CONSTITUTION

Tells Clubwomen Present One "Provides, in Effect, for Six Governors."

Former Governor Caulfield today told the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, in convention at Hotel Jefferson, that Missouri must reorganize its State government for greater efficiency and should rid itself of its constitution which itself "provides, in effect, for not one, but six Governors."

Saying that the "trouble with Missouri's government lies in too great a diffusion of responsibility," Caulfield outlined a plan whereby most of the subordinate positions in the State government would be subject to appointment by the Governor.

There need be no fear of giving the Governor so much executive power," he said. "Missouri is not so much in danger of despotism as it is of inefficiency. The best way to attain efficiency and economy in government is to make it easy, not hard, for the people to change their public servants; to make it easy for the people to place responsibility for extravagance and inefficiency."

Voters Disfranchised. Caulfield explained how large departments, expending much of the revenue, had been built up under subordinate officials "over whom the Governor has no influence," and between whom "active co-operation is seldom found." He said that the voting public was not only being disfranchised by the confusion of having to vote for so many officials, but also by the duplicate and overlapping boards and commissions which had been set up.

He said that the appointment of subordinate officials by the Governor would "be a step toward better government" because it would center responsibility in the Governor. "It would make the government simpler and more understandable," he said. "It would make it more responsive."

He urged the State Federation of Women's Clubs to initiate the movement for the reorganization of the State Government and the changing of the Constitution. He said it would "take a mighty effort," but the result would "enable the people to administer their own affairs simply and well."

Charles Nagel Speaks. Charles Nagel, attorney and member of President Taft's Cabinet, also spoke at the convention today, addressing the women on "Citizenship."

Seventy-one new clubs were added to the federation in the last two years. Mrs. Richard Taaffe, first vice-president, reported yesterday, making a total of 384 clubs in the State. The Seventh District won first prize in the contest for securing the greatest number of new clubs, with the Fourth and the Eighth (St. Louis) District tied for second place.

Report on Militancy. Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, the "moonlight lady" of "bloody" Rowan County, in Kentucky, and director of the National Militancy Crusade, spoke at the session last night and reported that there were 67,905 persons in Missouri who could neither read nor write.

Mrs. Stewart, who received her title because of her work in teaching the mountain folk of Kentucky by moonlight how to read and write, told the club women that a determined drive by them could wipe illiteracy out of the state since it of illiterate persons in Missouri is about 10 per cent of the population. The convention closed with a song by Mrs. Y. S. J. on "Come to the Club."

The convention was held at the Hotel Jefferson, and was the largest ever held in the State.

Saying that the "trouble with Missouri's government lies in too great a diffusion of responsibility among semi-independent agencies of government," Caulfield outlined a plan whereby most of the subordinate positions in the State government would be subject to appointment by the Governor.

takes only six weeks to teach the fundamentals. One-fifth of the illiterates in the state are in St. Louis and St. Louis County, she said, quoting figures which showed that there were more than 12,000 in the city and 2000 in the county.
"The state educational leaders have failed to attack the problem of illiteracy in Missouri," Mrs. Stewart said, "and the 4,000,000 illiterates in the country are a menace to American institutions. Illiterates have the highest crime rate and only 5 per cent of them ever pay taxes."

Family Movie Night Plan.
Mrs. Arretus F. Their greatest interest, she said, was to get the owners to inaugurate Friday night as "family night."

"Some theaters," she said, "are showing only those pictures recommended by club women." This afternoon's program included an address by the Rev. Daniel S. Lord, S. J., on "Motion Pictures and the Code."
The principal speaker at the convention tonight will be Mrs. Herbert Y. McMullen, chairman of the International Relations Committee of the National Federation, who will speak on "The Problems of the Far East."
The convention will close with three sessions tomorrow. At the night meeting at the Wednesday Club, Taylor avenue and Westminster place, Mrs. Grace Morrison Foote, president of the National Federation, will speak on the topic, "Come Let Us Reason Together."

MRS. SUSIE CARTAN GLEESON,
MEMBER OF OLD FAMILY, DIES

Widow of Banker Was 78 Years Old; Funeral to Be Saturday at St. Rose's Church.

Mrs. Susie Cartan Gleeson, member of an old St. Louis family, died last night at her home, 5581 Enright avenue, of complications following a long illness. She was 78 years old.

Mrs. Gleeson was the widow of Thomas Patrick Gleeson, banker, and daughter of David Cartan, her maternal grandmother. She was the wife of James Barry, Mayor of St. Louis before the Civil War. Her husband was a half brother of Archbishop Ryan.
She is survived by three sons, Thomas Paul, David Cartan and Joseph Gleeson; five daughters, Mrs. E. C. Breck, Mrs. George F. Chopin, Mrs. Joseph Chassaigne, Mrs. E. A. Pickel, and Miss Marjorie Gleeson. Another daughter, Mrs. Linn R. Brokaw, died in 1924. Twenty-one grandchildren and two great-grandchildren survive also. Two granddaughters, Miss Alice Linn Brokaw and Miss Marion Robertis Brokaw, made their home with her.

The funeral will be held Saturday, at an hour to be announced, at St. Rose's Catholic Church. Good-fellow and Maple avenues. Burial will take place in Calvary Cemetery.

VISITATION ACADEMY
KEEPING CENTENNIAL

High Mass and Pageant Repeated on Second of Three Days' Celebration.

The celebration of the hundredth anniversary of the first establishment of the Sisters of the Visitation to the Middle West continued today at Visitation Academy, Belt and Cabanne avenues. The program, begun yesterday, will be concluded tomorrow.

Archbishop Glennon presided at a solemn high mass in the Academy chapel yesterday and pronounced the Papal benediction. The high mass was preceded by six low masses.

The chapel, decorated with flowers, was filled with alumnae of the school, their friends and the nuns. About 75 priests were in the sanctuary. The mass was celebrated by the Rev. Francis J. O'Connor and the sermon was by the Rev. Robert S. Johnston, S. J., president of St. Louis University.

The same program was repeated today, with different clergymen participating. The pageant, "Our Visitation and Yours," by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., was to be given again this afternoon.

Mayor Dickmann spoke last night at a meeting at the academy. A message of congratulation from President Roosevelt was read.

Father Johnston spoke of the founding of the Visitation order in France in 1610 by St. Francis de Sales and St. Jane Frances de Chantal, and of the establishment of its first convent in the United States in 1794 in Philadelphia.

He told of its later transfer to Georgetown, under the patronage of Archbishop Neale of Baltimore, and how a small group of the nuns left Georgetown to establish its first convent in the Midwest at Kaskaskia, Ill., May 3, 1833.

Eleven years later, Father Johnston related, a flood destroyed their school at Kaskaskia and the nuns came to St. Louis.

Archbishop Glennon, in a brief message of congratulation, said divine and human qualities were so combined in the Sisters of the Visitation as to make "a perfect spiritual lady, and a perfect spiritual lady is certainly a good religious."

The world would be the better to

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

THE opening performance of Shakespeare's comedy, "All's Well That Ends Well," as produced by the Little Theater of St. Louis, will be given tonight at the Artists' Guild, Union boulevard and Enright avenue. There will be 11 performances, including two matinees Saturday and the following Saturday. The cast includes Leonard Visser, Gordon Sommers, Percy Ramsey, Barbara Jane Messing, Jackson Perkins, Alice Spalding, Eugene Wood and Bryson Rash.

Tonight's performance will be attended by The Players, one of the oldest dramatic organizations in the city. Following the play The Players will give a buffet supper in the crypt of the theater at which members of the cast will be guests of honor.

Tomorrow night will be patrons' night, and Saturday night the play will be given in honor of the Artists' Guild and the Cryptic Club. The other eight performances will be open to the public.

Partial arrangements have been made for the wedding of Miss Marie Pauline Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Ball of Memphis, Tenn., and Duncan Ivers Meler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan I. Meler of Huntleigh Village. The ceremony will take place in the Presbyterian Church of Webster Groves, Wednesday afternoon, June 14, at 5:30 o'clock. A reception will follow at the St. Louis Woman's Club.

There will be a large bridal party, including Miss Winifred Duncan, debutante cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary D. Shipley and Miss Dorothy Lund, contemporary debutantes of the bride two seasons ago. Miss Ball is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Meler at present. She and her family formerly lived in Webster Groves. They leased their home late in the winter and returned to Memphis to live.

A social feature of the biennial convention of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs which is meeting in St. Louis this week, will be a luncheon to be given tomorrow by the department of fine arts, of which Mrs. Frederick B. Hall is chairman, at 12:30 o'clock in the empire room of the Park Plaza. The day, he said, if it would turn to the devotion of the Sacred Heart of Jesus on which the order lays particular emphasis.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mary Gartman, Springfield, Ill., and James Good Conzelman, son of Mrs. Jane guests will include Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Walter W. Seymour of Chicago, dean of chairmen; Mrs. Davis S. Long, state president for Missouri; Mrs. De Witt C. Chastain, district presidents and other state and district officers.

There will be a short literary program following the luncheon, which will include the reading of poems by the late Sara Teasdale.

At 2 o'clock tomorrow there will be a motor ride through the residential section, followed by a tour of the Art Museum, with a talk on Whistler's portrait of his mother, by Miss Mary Powell.

At 4 o'clock the music section, with Mrs. Paul Blackwelder as chairman, will give a musical program at the museum. The artists will be Goriad Galston, pianist, and the St. Louis Symphony Choir.

From the museum the delegates will be taken to the home of Mrs. John Green in Hampton Park, where a garden reception will be given in honor of Mrs. Poole by Miss Alves Long.

At 10 o'clock tomorrow night, following an evening of music and entertainment at the Wednesday Club, Mrs. Poole will be the guest of honor at a reception to be given in the reception rooms of the club building. The receiving party will include in addition to Mrs. Poole, Mrs. Norman L. Lincoln, retiring president of the Wednesday Club; Mrs. Ralph L. Thompson, incoming president; Mrs. David S. Long, Mrs. De Witt Chastain and Mrs. William Knight, federation chairman for the Wednesday Club. The board of directors of the Wednesday Club will serve.

Mrs. Sidney Maestre, 4393 Westminster place, has had as her guests for a few days Mrs. Tracy Weltmer of Kansas City, and Mrs. F. Fearheile of Mount Vernon, Ill., former classmates of their hostess at Hollins College. The visitors departed yesterday for their homes.

Robert Colt Dry, 5117 Westminster place, is recuperating at a hospital in Arcadia, Mo., from an emergency operation for appendicitis. Mrs. Dry is guest at the Lone Pine Hotel in Arcadia.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mary Gartman, Springfield, Ill., and James Good Conzelman, son of Mrs. Jane

Good Conzelman of Springfield, formerly of St. Louis. The ceremony took place Thursday noon at the Episcopal Church of Springfield, Bishop White officiating. A wedding breakfast followed. Miss Mary White was maid of honor, and Emerson Conzelman of New York was his brother's best man.

The engagement announcement was made about a week ago, and the wedding arrangements were informal. Mr. and Mrs. Conzelman will occupy his mother's apartment for three months while she is in California.

The marriage of Miss Adelaide Moloney, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Forshaw, 1224 Bellevue avenue, and Roland H. Stocks, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Stocks, will take place at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening. There will be a candlelight service at the Forshaw home, and a reception will follow. The guests will be limited to the families and a few close friends. The Rev. Joseph A. McMahon will officiate.

Miss Julia Moloney will be maid of honor, and Miss Natalie Forshaw, bridesmaid. Dr. A. Edwin Stocks will be best man, and Dr. F. J. Sauer of Pittsburgh, groomsmen. Mr. Stocks arrived in St. Louis Sunday from Florida.

Mrs. F. T. Niesen, grandmother of the bride, will entertain the bridal party at dinner tomorrow night before the rehearsal, and other parties will be given for them this week. Mr. Stocks and his bride will live in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Stinde, 6379 Waterman avenue, will depart early next month for Millbrook, N. Y., to attend the commencement exercises at the Bennett School, where their daughter, Miss Louise Montague Stinde, is a senior. The exercises will be held June 7.

Miss Stinde will make her debut next year.

Mrs. Conway Elder, 4009 Lindell boulevard, has as her guest her sister, Miss Viola Hanick of New York, who will be here a month. Miss Hanick, a singer of note, has studied in Paris with Jean de Reske and with Maestro Cottone in Milan. For two years she has been singing over the radio.

Saturday night she will sing at a benefit party which is to be given for the St. Philomena's Technical School, Cabanne avenue and Union boulevard, repeating a performance

she gave for the same school prior to her grand opera debut.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lamke, 138 Linden avenue, Clayton, have as their guest Mrs. H. H. Rood of Denver. Mrs. Rood has spent the winter in South America and is visiting St. Louis on her return trip.

ference, I made it plain that its application would have to be subjected to safeguards which this difference in our position requires.
"This was considered to be reasonable. I took the opportunity of putting before the President a full account of the British policy on disarmament and as a result of our discussions we reached common views which have been reflected in the effective co-operation between British and American delegates in support of the draft convention now before the disarmament conference at Geneva.

The Debt Problem.
"We also discussed the question of the debts and frankly examined the problem in all its aspects. These exchanges of views were of particular importance, as they brought out in well-defined detail what differences had to be reconciled, and not only in the final settlement but in the immediate handling of the questions.

"On this subject I can make no fuller statement at present, as the matter has necessarily not yet reached the stage of agreement.
"As for the visit on the whole,
while I wish to convey no exaggerated impression, I would say with confidence that mutual understanding between our lives and the American Government has been materially improved by the discussions which I have had with the President, for whose friendly hospitality and unreserved helpfulness throughout all our deliberations the warmest thanks of the Government are due."

Opposition to Statement.
The opposition leader, George Lansbury, head of the Labor party, characterized the Prime Minister's statement as "meager" and called on him to take the Commons and the country into his confidence and to "give a full statement of the Government's policy generally as regards the world economic conference."

MacDonald agreed to hold on Tuesday a full debate of the Washington conversations and of the British policy at the world economic conference.

The Prime Minister informed the House that Roosevelt, Herriot and he himself had agreed in regard to plans for the world parity.

Favored Nation Policy.
Countries entitled under existing treaties to most-favored-nation treatment will enjoy the benefit of any reductions now given under Britain's new trade treaties. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, announced in the House of Commons. The United States has such a treaty with Great Britain.

The British Government, Runcman said, proposes to undertake negotiations with other foreign countries, and the Government certainly will not be prepared to continue indefinitely to afford full most-favored-nation treatment to countries which show themselves unwilling to meet the "reasonable requirements" of Britain with regard to United Kingdom goods.

Several social engagements were planned today for the Argentine representative, Dr. Tomas A. Le Breton, who is here to take part in the White House conversations. The Argentine-American talks yesterday were devoted mainly to a discussion of wheat control methods and a possible relaxation of the American quarantine on meat from the South American country.

This Government was officially informed last night that Japan had no intention of closing the "open door" in Manchuria to American trade because the United States had not recognized the state of Manchukuo. The Japanese Foreign Ministry gave this word to Ambasador Grew at Tokyo, thus removing any concern that Japan might this week force American recognition.

Japanese Delegate Sails for U. S. to Meet Roosevelt.
TOKIO, May 4.—Viscount Kokijiro Ishii left today for his conference with President Roosevelt to defend Japan's role as a "primary defender of the peace of the Orient"
and to urge American recognition of Manchukuo.

Accompanying the Viscount are Elgo Fukui, vice-governor of the Bank of Japan, and seven advisers and secretaries. They sailed for the United States on the Tsubata Maru.

Viscount Ishii told a representative of the Associated Press that his role in the White House conversations and later at the world economic conference in London would be primarily political. The economic aspects of the mission, he said, would be left to Fukui, who earlier accusation of the French that the Reichwehr is "an army of offense," declaring that if it were true then the American and British armies also were offensive.

The German suggestion that the whole question be thrown into the hands of a permanent disarmament commission was opposed by Hugh Wilson, United States delegate, and others on the ground that it would weaken the edifice set up by the draft disarmament convention adopted last year. The question was put over for future discussion.

Valerian Dvoglevsky, Russian delegate, came to the support of the German contention that if a conscript system is adopted it should be truly universal. Russia would have to know, he said, just what kind of an army her Asiatic neighbors would have.

W. A. Riddell, for Canada, said that the traditions, environment and practice of the Canadian people were opposed to conscription.

"We could not if we wished," he said, "impose conscription on our people. They would not stand for it."

It was announced that a provisional decision had been reached on the question of including police in computing Germany's armed strength. The English, who presented the draft convention now under study, approved the compromise by which the state police would not be counted in the army unless they exceeded a certain percentage, understood to be about 10 per cent, of the whole army. The British plan provides a German army of 200,000.

$100 CASH—Ten Other Valuable Prizes Given FREE

THIS week, arbiters of St. Louis society are testing their style sense, casting ballots in a unique Shoe Fashion Revue.

Every woman in St. Louis is invited to participate in this Style Jury Trial—which offers a chance to win $100 CASH—or a pair of stunning shoes!

Just go to Stix, Baer & Fuller, or The Swope Shoe Company and see the sixteen pairs of fashionable shoes displayed in a special case. Eight of these are the very newest, most modish fashion shoes. And eight are the new spring models of Selby Arch Preserver Shoes. All identification marks are concealed.

You cast your vote for the eight pairs of shoes which, in your opinion, are the smartest. If your decision coincides with that of the judges, you may win $100 CASH!

Latest Style Plus Concealed Comfort

This extraordinary Style Jury Trial is being held for one purpose only. To prove to you that today it's impossible to find any difference in appearance and smartness between Selby Arch Preservers with all their patented comfort features and ordinary fashion shoes built for style alone! In the past, millions of women have bought Selby Arch Preservers for their unrivaled comfort. Today millions more will buy them for their incomparable fashion!

Vote Right Away

Go tomorrow to Stix, Baer &amp; Fuller (2nd floor)

Shoe Department) or The Swope Shoe Company (Olive at 10th St.), and see the Shoe Fashion Revue. From the sixteen pairs of shoes shown, choose the eight you think are smartest. Check them on the Style Jury Ballot which will be handed to
you. Also write your answer to the question,
"What do you think is the most striking feature of the new Selby Arch Preservers?"

The woman who selects the same shoes as are chosen by the judges, and submits the best 15-word answer to the above question, in the opinion of the judges, will be awarded the First Prize of $100 in cash. The ten women submitting the ten next most nearly correct decisions will each receive a pair of Selby Arch Preserver Shoes. Winners will be notified by mail. The decision of the judges must be accepted as final. In case of ties, prizes will be duplicated.

Cast your vote at once. You may win $100 in cash.

RAISES ROOSEVELT'S POLICY TOWARD PRESS

Charles G. Ross, in Journalism
Address, Says President Will Get More Power.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBIA, Mo., May 4.—The new press policy of President Roosevelt has resulted in a new era of enlightenment, Charles G. Ross, chief of the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch, said here last night in a Journalism Week address at a University of Missouri banquet. "Not only is the President to be commended for turning on the light in places heretofore dark," Ross said, "but the newspapers, I believe, are to be equally commended for the manner in which they have grasped the opportunity."

Ross, who formerly was a member of the Journalism School faculty here, divided the program with Wing Brant, editorial writer of the St. Louis Star and Times.
In his speech on "covering news from the national capital," Ross said Roosevelt's press policy was not only the President to be commended for turning on the light in places heretofore dark, but the newspapers, I believe, are to be equally commended for the manner in which they have grasped the opportunity."

"The reporting of events of these first weeks of the Roosevelt administration has been of the highest quality," Ross continued.
Ross spoke of Roosevelt as the greatest politician in the White house since Lincoln, and said, "We can't tell yet whether he will be known in history as the fifth cousin of T. R. or T. R. II." He will be known as the fifth cousin of Franklin."

Ross predicted Roosevelt is destined to receive more power than has already gathered into his hands despite the fact that constitutionalists view this condition with alarm.

Brant said in his address that never before has there been a time when the American people were more responsible to well-directed public leadership, especially that provided by independent newspapers.

The new vigorous leadership in the White House, Brant pointed out, has caused an awakening in both newspapers and in the responsible public is giving the press.

Brant said that political partianship among newspapers has been destroyed by a common danger, fear of economic collapse in this country. This, he added, however, does not mean that diversity and independence of editorial opinion has disappeared.
Brant berated the newspapers of Chicago for their lack of vigorous, liberal journalism. It was this weakness of the newspapers there,
he asserted, which is in no small way responsible for the plight of Chicago public schools and the unpaid, starving teachers.

Meetings of the Missouri United Press, Missouri Press Association
district groups, the Missouri University Journalism Alumni Association and the Missouri Associated Press were the convention features of today's session. Continuing under the direction of the Missouri Press Association, the program today was devoted to addresses covering conditions in various sections of the state. Speakers included
James J. Roark, Richmond Misourian; L. I. Baker, Versailles Statesman; Walter W. Zubank, Madison Times; Paul Page, Lebanon Rustic.

ALL DOGS, MUZZLED OR NOT,

New Emergency Order Issued by Health Commissioner in Effort to Control Rabies.

All dogs, whether muzzled or not,
must be restrained by leashes in public places, beginning today, or they will be destroyed under an emergency proclamation issued by Health Commissioner Bredeck in an effort to control rabies.

The proclamation was transmitted to police captains by Chief Gerk today after 13 persons, including eight children, were reported bitten by dogs yesterday. Twenty-seven persons were reported bitten Tuesday. Robert, 11-year-old son of Detective Thomas Harberding, 644 Olmstead avenue, was bitten on the left arm yesterday by a stray dog, found to have been suffering from rabies after it was destroyed by police. The boy received Pasteur treatment.

In the proclamation Bredeck said
the order of March 16 requiring dogs to be muzzled or leashed had proved unenforceable and more drastic restrictions were required.
Biting dogs, whether on leash or not, will be placed under observation for 10 days and then released
if there is no evidence of rabies.
He said, "Stray dogs were ordered destroyed."

SLUDGE DEALT DEATH BLOW AS MOTORISTS ADOPT NEW OIL

"THIS IS THE TIME TO DE-SLUDGE YOUR MOTOR"
SAYS CHEERFUL STAN

"Now is the time when every person who values his motor car is having winter worn,
sludge oil drained off,
and new, clean oil put in," cheerful Stan, the Serviceman, told reporters late yesterday.

"It's a great thing that Iso-Vis 'D' is ready for all these car owners. I say to my own customers, 'Why use old-style oil when this new anti-sludge lubricant costs no more?'"

"I've seen thousands of good cars being worn out before their time because the motors had to turn over with their crankshafts and pistons
all tangled up in sticky, gritty sludge formed by road dirt and oil that was allowed to go too long—oil that couldn't stand the heat and speed of modern driving."

"But those days are over for folks who use Iso-Vis 'D,' because believe me, Iso-Vis 'D' is an oil that can take it!"

THE OLD TIMER HAD IT COMING TO HIM

COLD FACTS FOR SERIOUS THINKERS

Iso-Vis "D" is produced under totally new processes perfected by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—patents pending. These are the Propane Dewaxing Process, and the Chlorex Extraction Process for removing unstable and undesirable constituents present in all petroleum distillates. By these exclusive refining processes a new-type lubricant is produced with much higher resistance to oxidation and sludge formation than any motor oil has hitherto possessed. The new oil likewise is notable for improved viscosity-temperature characteristics, low pour point, minimum carbon formation, and great durability.

ADVENT OF ISO-VIS "D" INSPIRES THOUSANDS TO RID CRANKCASES OF OLD ENEMY OF MOTOR EFFICIENCY

"Drain out winter-worn oil now!" is order of the day as new Anti-Sludge lubricant goes into action—brings new ease to motors at new low cost

Chicago, Ill., May 1.—Sludge took it on the chin
for the count when tough, sturdy Iso-Vis "D" scored a series of knock-outs with clean-cut performances staged in Middle West crank-cases during the past few days.

At no time did Sludge, the old, soft product of oil-draining carelessness and inferior lubricants, have a chance against the smooth performance of this smart new-comer.

The need for an anti-sludge motor oil has grown as the average speed of traffic has increased. Ordinary motor oils could not stand the punishment of the heat and pounding of busy motors. But now a special oil to meet this need has been developed by the Standard Oil Company.

After Iso-Vis "D" was developed in the laboratory it was subjected to more than a million and a quarter miles of the hardest sort of road tests in 51 different types of motor vehicles.

These tests proved that in fact, as well as in theory, Iso-Vis "D" is really an anti-sludge motor oil. Not only that—it is also an oil that possesses remarkable durability and long lasting qualities.

"Lik. the complex poisons developed in the human system by excessive physical strain, Sludge might be called a fatigue product," said
a distinguished oil expert recently in speaking of lubrication problems. "But whatever it is called, this product of worn-out oil has a cumulative effect. It combines with foreign matter that collects gradually in even the best regularly cranked cases. Unnoticed at first, this thick mixture causes gradual sluggishness of power,
and often leads to premature motor failure."

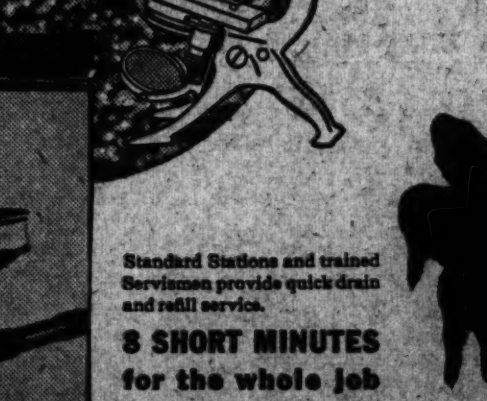

Car owners everywhere have been quick to welcome this new oil at the very season of the year when it is most important that old, winter-worn, sludgy oil be drained from crankcases. It is a recognized fact that Sludge formation is always heaviest in winter driving.

All over the Middle West thousands are refilling with so-Vis "D." In most cars, drivers report an immediate and noticeable improvement in motor performance.

SLUDGE CONTAINS HARSH GRIT

See how Sludge looks under the microscope. This vile, sticky, gummy mass gums
motors, and scores cylinders.
The dark, angular spots are hard, jagged grinding particles that cause worn bearings and scratched surfaces.

ting higher a. c. he
open road calling.
Can that travel far and fast over 100 m.p.h. trail will roll easier and less expensively if factors are free from Sludge.

This is how Sludge foiled when a savvy serviceman scooped up a handful just drained from the crankcase of a typical family sedan. It is no longer oil, but gummy, gritty slime that will shorten the life
of any motor if left to churn around in the crankcase.

Gummy sludge clutches at crank-shaft and pistons and holds back motor horsepower just as sticky mud robs race horses of their strength and speed.

RAL SHARES LEADS LATE STOCK SPURT, ENDS STRONG

Upward Movement in Carriers Follows the Introduction of the Administration's Railroad Relief Legislation.

STOCK PRICE TREND.

Advances	138	Declines	138
Unchanged	137	Total Issues	830

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The stock market slumped and boiled today, displaying mixtures of hope and fear, and finally steamed upward to a strong finish with the rails leading the advance. Gains ranged from 1 to 3 or more points. Transfers approximated 4,800,000 shares.

Traders indicated considerable decision in early trading, as various conjectures were broached concerning the President's speech at Washington tonight. Introduction of the administration's railroad relief legislation, accompanied by a special message to Congress from the President, touched off the latest enthusiasm that pushed up the market in last-hour rally. Some of the utilities, metals and tobacco were a trifle hesitant.

The leading rail gainers of 1 to 3 or more points included Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Pennsylvania, Southern and Southern Pacific. American Telephone, steady most of the session, jumped about 2 points near the close and United States Steel. Standard of New Jersey, Allied Chemical, American Smelting, American Can, General Motors, Nash and Chrysler were up 1 to more than 3. American International Silver, International Nickel and most of the tobacco issues were easier.

The American dollar was subjected to some pressure in the foreign exchange markets, with the British pound sterling advancing 2 1/2 cents to a cable rate of $3.91 1/2. Swiss francs rose 1/2 cent to 46 1/2 cents and Dutch guilders gained 3/4 cent to 47 1/2 cents. The dollar was fractionally higher. Grains, after holding to a rather steady tone during most of the session, closed strong. Wheat was up 1/4 to 1/2 cent above yesterday's close. Cotton was 10 to 15 cents higher. Spot silver declined 1/2 cent an ounce and copper was virtually unchanged.

News of the day. Rates were higher by advance estimates indicating that the freight car loadings may show a clear advance over the previous year for the first time in a long time. Motors were helped by production estimates, showing a small gain over the like month of last year, and indications that May output may be higher. On the whole, however, Wall Street remained rather hesitant, pending further Washington developments, and indications as to how long the market spring pickup in business may carry. The administration's rail bill was awaited with interest, but its contents had been largely disclosed in advance.

The communications issues were bid up chiefly in response to reports of better business. Cable business has picked up considerably coincident to increased speculative activity. Rumors of a merger between Western Union and Postal Telegraph, subsidiary of International Telephone, have been revived, but this would require an act of Congress, since the White House is inclined to recover from their rather sharp setback.

Dollar in Heavy. Wall street was looking forward with keen interest to the address of President Roosevelt before the United States Chamber of Commerce and financial leaders before were hopeful some general outline of future policy as to inflation might be provided. The President has indicated that he would touch upon fair wages, over-production and hours of employment, all key subjects in any seminar of business.

In the Water Now
Gang Rule or Court
Rule?
Omaha, Great City
Hard Work Pays

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1933.)
CHICAGO, May 4.

USING the language of the old "midway," Uncle Sam may say "I'm in the water now." The House has passed the "inflation bill," so-called, and those that spend public money will be able to say, if they choose, "what's a billion among friends or ten billions?" However, there are two kinds of inflation, common sense use of the nation's credit with the backing of its gigantic wealth, and foolish inflation, based on reckless spending and money printing. To the question "what do you think of inflation?" the answer is the same as you would give to the question "what do you think about drinking?" It all depends on how much you drink. One thing is certain. Millions will conclude that the best thing to do with a dollar is to spend it. That will help business and employment. And American common sense can be trusted to use American credit wisely.

Having rid its mind of all worry about the coming exposition, which will open on time and in full glory, Chicago turns its attention seriously to racketeers and racketeer rule. Bootleg beer profits, with inferior beer sold at $50 a barrel constituted the backbone of Chicago's racketeer finance.

With beer of good quality sold legally at $15 a barrel the mainstay of the racketeer disappears. Their plan now, as proved by numerous bomb explosions, is to make "legitimate business" provide profits formerly derived from illegal beer.

The proposed racketeer invasion of business reaches from labor unions to milk dealers, ice and coal merchants, cleaners and dyers, and dozens of other lines of business.

The boldness of the gang rulers, plainly bent on public intimidation, is extraordinary. Five bombs were exploded within a few minutes of each other, beginning at half past two, day before yesterday, in the loop, Chicago's business center.

Chicago proposes to show that it can not be so easily frightened, and its citizens, distrusting public officials that have allowed crime to continue on a bribery basis for so long, will take into their own hands the job of wiping out gangsterism.

They will get suggestions rather violent, but effective from the history of San Francisco, and from London's line of action, when menaced by a gang of garroters.

London used the cat-o-nine tails in every case, within 15 minutes of conviction, and garrotting ceased suddenly.

San Francisco's Vigilance Committee used the rope without bothering about court procedure, and criminals immediately decided that San Francisco was not a desirable residence.

Chicago must make its choice between rule by gangs and rule by the citizens and their courts.

Cheerful news meets you at Omaha, on the way here and signs of prosperity are all along the line, through Nebraska.

L. B. Tobin, publisher of the Omaha Star-News, proud of his city and State tells you that Omaha, second largest livestock market in the world, Chicago first, of course, has annual receipts ranging as high as eight million seven hundred and fifty thousand head of cattle, sheep and hogs.

Over three-fifths of the stock is processed in Omaha packing houses, which means employment for Omaha.

In addition, Omaha is one of the country's principal grain centers, handling 26,000,000 bushels of wheat a year, and it is the largest butter manufacturing city in the world, and, therefore, the world's largest distributor of life-giving vitamins.

It is the fourth railroading center in the United States, with 10 trunk lines, bringing traffic to Omaha over 72,250 miles of track. And Omaha has money. Thirty-ninth in population among American cities, it stands nineteenth in annual bank clearings.

Most important, prices and prosperity are rising. Prices of Nebraska farm products have increased. Corn, from 8 cents, and less to 23 cents, wheat from 20 cents to 55 cents, eggs from 7 to 11 cents a dozen, oats from 5 to 15 cents a bushel, hogs from $2.85 to $3.65 per 100 weight.

And the best of it is that farmers will get a large part of the increased values. They still hold on their farms, unsold, and now in active demand, farm products that have increased in value by more than fifty-one million dollars.

In the Water Now
Gang Rule or Court
Rule?
Omaha, Great City
Hard Work Pays

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

CHICAGO, May 4.

USING the language of the old

"I'm in the water now."
The House has passed the "inflation bill," so-called, and those that spend public money will be able to say, if they choose, "what's a billion among friends or ten billions?"

However, there are two kinds of inflation, common sense use of the nation's credit with the backing of its gigantic wealth, and foolish inflation based on reckless spending and money printing. To the question "what do you think of inflation?" the answer is the same as you would give to the question
"what do you think about drinking?" It all depends on how much you drink.

One thing is certain. Millions will conclude that the best thing to do with a dollar is to spend it. That will help business and employment.
And American common sense can be trusted to use American credit wisely.

Having rid its mind of all worry about the coming exposition, which will open on time and in full glory, Chicago turns its attention seriously to racketeers and racketeer rule.
Booting beer profits, with inferior

by "P. HAL SIMS"

P. Hal Sims is acclaimed the greatest contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won 21 national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

Short-Suited Slam Tries

THE last few articles have, I trust, made clear my reasons for wishing the bidding of one no trump, two no trump, four no trump, to lead to a slam contract in a suit if the partners holding locate a suit in which each holds four cards, with complete top-card control between them, the requirements I insist on for the suit insure that one of the four will have the ace. This is necessary, otherwise the opponent on lead might lead ace and one trump and so wreck beyond repair the possibly desirable cross-cutting policy which is the key to the playing of quite a few hands with 4-4 trump holding.

Rebid Procedure of the Opening

On hearing his partner's acceptance of the slam try, one thing he may not do is to pass, since it is now understood that a slam will be reached with no need for any other than minimum exchanges of information. There is no stopping at five either in a suit or in no trump. However, the opener's next bid may be of three different kinds, according to his partner's bid over four no trump and in view of his own suit holdings.

First, if his partner bid five in a suit over four no trump, he must raise that suit to six if he holds four cards in it headed by one of the top three honors. On the bidding so far it is, of course, virtually certain that he holds at least one of the top honors in each of the four suits; the important point is that he must not raise with less than four cards of the suit. Partner has only four, and high suit contracts, especially slams, must not be undertaken with less than eight trumps in the two hands. If unable to raise partner's suit or bid a suit himself, he says five no trump.

Second, if unable to raise partner's suit, he should bid a four-card suit if as good as A. Q. x x or K. Q. x x, even if he has to bid six in it. Partner will go to six no trump, if unable to supply the needed support for that suit.

Third, if the responding hand's response was five no trump, opener should now bid a four-card suit headed by ace-queen or king-queen if he has one, to feel out the possibility that his partner can accept the slam in that suit. With no suit to bid, opener says six no trump.

Fourth, if either partner has two suits good enough to bid in this situation, there is no point in mentioning the second if a fit has been discovered in the first. If opener has two suits, he should bid the higher ranking one first. If partner's slam-acceptance was in the form of five in a suit which opener can overcall at the same level, he will (assuming responder cannot support the first suit) still be able to bid his second suit. Four no trump, five diamonds, five hearts by opener, five no trump, six clubs. Unable to support either suit, responder bids six no trump. If, however, the bidding is four no trump, five spades or five no trump, now opener can only show one of his two suits, as he would not be able to show the other before seven. He must hope that the hand will play as well in six no trump, assuming the same case, as it would have in six of the unbid suit had he been able to bid it. Which leads to bid if you are only going to be able to bid one of them? In match-point play, the higher ranking. In rubber play, the stronger, the one headed by the ace. With no preference on these grounds, the higher ranking. Incidentally, this contingency is very rare as when a powerful hand contains two four-card suits as good as this, it usually calls for a suit opening bid rather than no trump, to facilitate a one-over-one response and obtain as much information as possible while the bidding level is still low.

Tomorrow—Bidding Short-Suited Slams.

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

SON, EVERYONE HAS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY TO BECOME A GREAT MAN

1 SHOULD YOUNG PEOPLE BE ENCOURAGED IN THE BELIEF THAT THEY CAN ACHIEVE ALMOST ANY GOAL IN LIFE BY DEVELOPING WILL-POWER AND AMBITION?

YES OR NO

DO YOU BELIEVE THAT WOMEN, HAVING BEEN TEMPORARILY FORCED TO WORK OUTSIDE THE HOME, WILL EVER BE CONTENT TO RETURN TO THEIR DOMESTIC JOBS?

YES OR NO

3 DOES EDUCATION IN BOOKS AND SCHOOL IMPROVE ONE'S GENERAL POWERS OF THINKING AND JUDGING THE PRACTICAL PROBLEMS OF LIFE?

YES OR NO

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

No. They should be carefully shown their actual abilities, and encouraged to develop them instead of being filled up with false ideas either of themselves or of what makes "success." Success consists in finding your best abilities, and throwing all your heart and soul into making the most of these. Hardly anybody develops half the abilities he has, frequently because some foolish "character teacher" or Polyanna parent or teacher has led him to use his energies and eat his heart out trying to do things he is not fitted for.

Yes, as a rule. Dr. Florence Brown Sherborn, University of Kansas, has shown that practically all girls and young women day-dream of a husband, a home and children. Marriage doesn't change this. Thousands of women have been forced to work outside the home to help hold the family together, but they long for the time when they can go back to the home.

No, or at least not enough to make actual knowledge gained come into use. Educators formerly believed that studying Latin for example, improved one's general "faculties of analysis," "judgment," etc. Or mathematics improved one's "powers of reason," "comparison," and so on. This doctrine was proved unacceptable when Woodworth and Thorndike, two noted psychologists, in 1903, showed that high school Latin students excelled no Latin students only slightly in Freshman college English and after that there was no difference, even in English, let alone in general mental powers. They showed that learning to estimate the length of lines twelve inches long did not greatly improve the ability to estimate lines twenty inches long. Numerous experiments have confirmed this in a general way. The result has been that educators have sought to train pupils in things they will use and this has brought much richer mental rewards than the old sterile doctrine of "mental drill."

SEEN in THE STORES

By SYLVIA

Men will have to hold on to their straw hats when the season officially opens because a sister or a wife is likely to be wearing them. Some of the new hats for women look almost like those that men wear. The sketch shows the similarity. Besides being made of white rough straw, these hats are banded with green.

FASHION faddists always like to be contrary by wearing dark colors in the summer and light ones in the winter. Dark cotton and linen sports suits, especially black, are typical of this obstinacy. We'll be seeing plenty of them soon if predictions are right. But black skirts and jackets call for a bit of brightness, so the blouses have a change. Look out for red, green and yellow developed in pique or linen. St. Louis shops are showing generous selections although the weak suit season has scarcely arrived.

A bridesmaid is the only one who could do justice to a little turban covered with velvet and silk rose petals in a real rose pink. The turban dips down coquettishly over one eye, and there is a flaring veil in the self-same color as the hat to give a certain dash and favor. Quaint also is the suggestion that a tiny muf of the matching rose petals enter the picture.

The flower petal theme appears again on summer evening frocks. It takes the place of ruffles and pleats for shoulder decorations and according to my observation is a trifle more sophisticated. Sheer

EVERYDAY RELIGION

By THE REV. JOSEPH FORT NEWTON

Winter Roses.

SIR JAMES BARRIE, in an address as rector of St. Andrews University, used these stirring words: "God gave us memory so that we might have roses in December." It was a picturesque way of saying what a wise poet had put into the lovely lines:

When time, who steals our years away,
Shall steal our pleasures, too,
The memories of the past will stay
And half our joys renew.

But, alas, memory may bring snow in August, if we do not learn how to remember and how to forget. We must be artists and select, prune and tend the garden of our hearts, or memory may mean frost and not flowers. Nay, it may be a fury with whips of fire, not an angel of blessing. It is a paradox, but none the less true, that if memory is to be an inspiration and not an incubus we must be able to forget.

Paul was wise when he said, "Forget the things that are behind"—the things that starched fabrics such as chiffon, organdie and organza suit the idea best because they help the petals to look fresh and crisp. Flower colors aren't essential to these petal shoulder dresses. You'll see as many brown and white plaids as anything else.

A forward looking girl won't lose any time about investing in a little crepe dress which has its own colored jacket. Think how smart she will look and be on the first white dress day, while all her friends are looking merely like spring instead of summer. Synthetic fabrics are featured in these dresses and it takes an intelligent silk worm to tell they aren't his own. There's one dress in town that will flatter a blonde or brunette, since it has a pink jacket. A shirtwaist theme predominates in the dress, which hugs the neckline as closely as it hugs the waist.

Pique revers and cuffs that actually fit your jacket aren't to be ignored. They're the ideal dress-up items for a dark spring suit that looks a bit warm for some May days. And they're going to come in home,

THE Mystery of the Wax-Museum, an all-color production, the thriller-and-chills feature picture the New Grand Central will present starting today. Starring in it are Lione Atwill and F. W. Wray, whose success in a similar all-colors thrill picture, "Dr. X," caused Warner's to essay this second venture into the realm of combining thrills, chills, laughs, yells and colored photography. With Atwill and Miss Wray are Glenda Farrell and Frank McHugh, to furnish comedy relief. Others appearing in the picture are Gavin Gordon, Holmes Herbert, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Thomas Jackson, De Witt Jennings and Matthew Betz. The picture deals with a madman, owner of a wax museum. With the creation of each lovely figure, a beautiful woman vanishes from the earth. How Glenda Farrell, as a wise-cracking girl reporter, sets out to save her friend, F. W. Wray, adds to the story. As an extra attraction, "The Fighting President" has been added to the program. It highlights the career of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Edwin C. Hill, widely known radio reporter, interprets the story of the President.

GETTING back to Thursday again as an opening day, the Missouri today will offer "Song of the Eagle," which has for its theme the return of beer. This production takes up the life of an American brewing family engaged in that profession before the war. It presents them through the years of prohibition, the dark era of racketeering, and into the dawn of today's new beer. The forecasters of the immediate future is shown in the struggle of the legitimate brewers and the racketeering beer barons who try to "muscle in." There is a romance between Mary Brian and Richard Arlen, who have the leads in the picture. The cast of supporting players includes Charles Bickford, Louise Dresser, Andy Devine, Jean Harlow and George E. Stone. On the same program will be a comedy featuring the team of radio fame, Burns and Allen.

LIONEL BARRYMORE's newest starring vehicle, "Looking Forward," will be the screen attraction of the week at Fox, starting today. The film employs the same title of "Looking Forward," which President Roosevelt used for his book, although the action of the motion picture is not based on the Roosevelt work. The following sentence, however, from the book, is used as the screen play's foreword: "We need enthusiasm, imagination and ability to face the facts—we need the courage of the young." The picture deals with the lives of two business men. The life of a millionaire department store owner, whose wife deserts him when he faces financial ruin, is contrasted with the story of a humble employee, who likewise is baffled by his inability to meet his payments and keep his home together, but whose family must be saved when he most needs them. In support of Barrymore will be Lewis Stone, last seen in "The White Sister"; Benita Hume, who made her American debut opposite Lee Tracy in "Clear All Wires"; Elizabeth Allan, Phillips Holmes, Douglas Walton, Colin Clive, Alec B. Francis, George K. Arthur and Boris Karloff. "Looking Forward" is based on the C. L. Anthony stage play, "Service."

ZASU PITTS and Slim Summerville, called the screen's funniest lovers, are again being co-starred in their latest picture, "Out All Night," at the Fox Theatre. Summerville has the role of a pampered "mama's boy" raised as a hot-house flower, and Miss Pitts is seen as an attendant in the nursery of a department store, equally ignorant of the facts of life. Their courtship and their subsequent honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls are said to be full of the most riotous humor. The supporting cast includes Alexander Hall, Laura Hope Crews, Shirley Grey, Rollo Lloyd and George Hackathorne. On the stage, Leonard Ceuley, romantic singing star of the Municipal Opera, is headlining the show, which is called "Modern Jazz vs. Opera Gema."

JOE E. BROWN will be seen on the screen of the Ambassador Theatre today in his comedy, "Elmer the Great." Written by Ring Lardner and George M. Cohan, the play was something of a comedy riot on the stage and is said to be even more hilarious on the screen. Some of the funniest as well as most intense scenes in the picture are during the playing of a World Series in a downpour of rain. The plot concerns a hick town boy who develops into the champion batsman of the big league. He is also the champion water and long-time sleeper. His cocksureness makes him the butt of innumerable jokes by other members of his team.

There is a strong supporting cast, with Patricia Ellis playing the leading feminine role opposite Joe. Others include Frank McHugh, Claire Dodd, Preston S. Foster and Russell Hopton. Singin' Sam, of radio fame, heads the Amateur stage show in person. The rest of the show is made up of "The Country Fair" from Station KMOX.

Now is the time to clean the premises, clean and get ready for a new supply.

days "work." Mr. Brandeis presents a theory which many young gentlemen will abhor. He says hard work does not hurt anybody. He used to work in the Boston Store in this way for Charles Netcher, the owner, when Mr. Netcher slept every night on the hard counter, and sent out for his meals. Brandeis and Netcher used to arrange furniture, rugs, etc., on the sidewalk, in front of the store, before sunrise, to attract business. Later, when Mr. Netcher married this widow runs the store now. Brandeis took the job of sleeping in the store. "But," says Brandeis, "I was a sybarite, compared with Netcher, and I used to get blankets from the bedding department, sleep with them on the counter, and put them back in the morning."

The late Benjamin Altman, one of the greatest American merchants, used to buy goods for his tiny "first store" on Sixth avenue, pay cash, and carry the merchandise home on his back.

All that will seem odd to many young Americans, whose motto is "Why should I kill myself?" But George Brandeis has not killed himself. At 55 he drives his automobile to his cattle ranch, 350 miles from Omaha, leaving home before daybreak, gets there in time for lunch, rides his horses all afternoon, and drives back at night.

And like Netcher, Altman, Marshall Field, Gimbel, Wanamaker and thousands of other hard workers, he has made a big fortune and is HIS OWN BOSS. That is better than being bossed by some one else all your life, if only for six hours a day.

GOOD TASTE

By EMILY POST

For "Auld Lang Syne."

I HAVE (or I would better say "had") a very dear friend who has been almost like an own sister. During the past year I left home to work in a large city. I have felt a change in feelings for this friend, which she must have sensed too, because several weeks ago in a letter from her she asked me what she had done to alter my feelings. Her letter was very difficult to answer. However, I truthfully wrote to her the things I believed had subconsciously changed me. (Among which was her thoughtlessness of others—her actual lack of interest in anything concerning me, or even the vaguest appreciation of what I am trying to do.) I asked her to write to me just as she would to a friend. Instead she wrote a short note, telling me she was very much hurt and would never get over my letter. I still feel that she invited the frankness of my reply, and that a true friendship exists outliving as well as in-taking interest. I still see no value in friendship emptied of sympathy. But if it was brutal I want to make amends in whatever way I can. Will you please help me?

Answer: Really serious thoughts, written in black and white, are always a great risk. Even professional writers find it difficult, after years of unceasing practice, to give the reader the exact impression they intend to convey. In a spoken explanation, the way one looks, the sound of one's voice, also the expression or the remarks made by the listener—help to give the meaning one intends. Criticism, in hard, cold, unaccented words is almost certain to hurt—sometimes needlessly. On the other hand, if you had something definite to say, a written message is more clearly cut than any conversation could be. But not knowing more than you tell me, I see only two things you can do. If she misunderstood you, write and say more or less what I have just said to you, and ask her to keep faith with you until you can see her and set matters straight. Or if you meant exactly what she thinks you meant and if you believe that the friendship would be better and there is nothing that you can do further than to say you are sorry it had to be, but that without the encouraging sympathy upon which friendship thrives, it has to fade—unless it can be replanted and pruned and made to grow anew.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I am planning to go away some time this summer. I have not decided yet, and would like to get some literature about certain places and information of a kind that is usually not kept in railroad offices. I would like to know some places to board and what kind of clothes to take. If I write you a personal letter, would you take the trouble to go into some of these details?

A TRAVELER.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I answer to the letter written by "Nero II." I wish to state that it is quite a burden for a mother to have daughters to watch over, in this day and age. I am the proud mother of two daughters, charming ones, who have brought me much joy and the utmost respect for themselves; but I have found out that young men are not to be trusted. So who can trust? Any respectable young man does not have to object to one of the parents being present; as they themselves once were in love and know that it is only natural for the young couple to show their affection for each other.

Resolved, that from now on, I will stay in the room until the young man leaves, even if it were "Nero" himself, in the case, too, may be harmful. Thanking you for your kind attention,

ONE WHO KNOWS.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I want to begin by saying that your column is one of clear understanding and concise answers. My problem is this: I don't know how to "learn how to be a girl." I am employed I am too dead tired and I am supposed to ask a girl to teach me. Thanking you sincerely, G. J.R.

You anticipated my answer. If you were one of the unemployed you might talk about being ill-housed.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

My dear Mrs. Carr:

Of all the nerve-racking experiences I've ever undergone, being unemployed is the worst. The mental strain is awful and my nerves somewhat shattered—after two years of idleness and I find myself fighting a desperate battle for self-respect. I've always had a great sense of humor, but the funny side isn't so funny any more. I am a young woman, but look very oldish, as the ravages of many long days and nights of mental anguish have begun to collect their toll. I am alone, and I am old, help I have one of the agencies, which I sought as a last resort. This sure does hurt one's morale. This means a bite to eat and a place to sleep, but the environment is not "moonlight and roses" and environment does have a tremendous effect on one's mind. A drab environment in connection with poverty is soul-harrowing. I want work and not charity! I never was so blue in all my life.

So many an drawing on your encouragement, I rather hesitate to write. But I have been bored you. I am so anxious to hear.

DISTRESSED.

You have not told me what you could do and then, of course, I would have to have your name and address; though I never promise employment. It is a stroke of luck sometimes, which enables me to get those who want work and those who are looking for someone to do work.

Your situation and your sensibilities are quite understandable, I can assure you. But I have found that dull environments and gloomy rooms can be changed with very little effort, if only by a branch from a tree and a few gay magazines, colored advertising or newspaper pictures. Unusual illustrations of travel folders, too. If you are near any library, within walking distance, go there and go continuously—take books home with you and live in them. And there are classes, free classes in so many interesting things. I know as well as you, it is sometimes almost impossible to concentrate, when one is in such trouble; you've got to make yourself do it, to give your mind rest and relief.

In my life of occupations for women, it is possible you might find some little suggestion which would be of use to you. I'll be over. I shall be glad to hear from you. You will let me have your name and address, which, of course, is a confidential matter.

I shall be glad to help you, and I think you will find that Post-Dispatch Travel Bureau thoroughly equipped to help you both in general information, such as you may want at other travel bureaus, and in the travel bureau itself. For Post-Dispatch office, Twelfth boulevard and Olive street.

JACKETS for the NEW ENSEMBLE

Combination Schemes in Dresses and Coats Are All the Rage for Wear This Spring—What the St. Louis Stores Are Showing.

By SYLVIA STILES. WHEN a woman goes into a store to buy a dress this season her first question is, "Has it a jacket?" Every woman is thinking in terms of ensembles. A dress is not interesting to her as an individual item but interesting in its relation to a coat, cape or jacket. A lightweight wrap for wear now and on cool days during the summer has a distinct appeal. So the dress which has its own jacket never fails to receive its monetary reward.

The ensemble theme at this season of the year includes a variety of costumes. Important in the list is the silk dress, either printed or plain, which has its own coat. This coat most likely is in the finger-length and when it is a plain color has the added advantage of being suitable for wear with many other summer costumes. Heavy crepes are selling well at present but there is almost as much interest in the sheer fabrics. Significant also is the attention which retailers are paying to the more dressy costumes of this type, a costume effective in flower printed chiffon.

The redingote is another successful item in completing a late spring and early summer costume ideally suited to St. Louis weather. Presented as it usually is with a printed dress and a plain unlined coat the redingote ensemble serves for a multitude of occasions. A variety of light weight wool. The cape sleeve type is popular although it is not especially new. Pleated sleeves and skirt sections also are liked and of course we see many plain tailored redingotes which please the majority of customers.

A WOMAN can pay almost any price she wants for an ensemble this season. She can get a coat and dress for the price she once thought was too low for the dress alone. She can buy a dress and jacket for a price that gives her a quality and style in the inexpensive dress sections and be proud of her economy. Or if she wants to spend money she can do that, too. What she pays for is a certain amount of exclusiveness in style or better workmanship. There are prices to suit all pocketbooks, and types to suit all tastes.

Sketched today are four representative versions of the ensemble theme. The figure standing at left in the group is wearing an unusual silk dress and jacket costume that will make an impressive afternoon appearance. The fabric is a lovely suede-like finished silk that is known as silk-ponge. Skirt and jacket are of the deepest shade of blue—a genuine ash blue tone. The giraffe, which is wide in front and narrow at the sides, is Eleanore blue and the bodice is pale sea blue. As the dress is sleeveless it may serve for informal evening as well as more formal daytime use. The blouse fastens at one side with a large silver button and the side decorative effect is carried to the skirt where the fullness is concentrated in one kick pleat. Crocheted sleeves add formality to the jacket. At right and slightly above this more. The only way you can learn to dance is to pay for your lessons or have the courtesy and graciousness which will make it a pleasure for your friends to teach you.

My Dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE a way to clean silk dresses which have grease spots on them, without using ammonia or a cleaner, and which will not leave a ring.

Either French or precipitated chalk, rubbed on the spot and left for several days, then brushed and wiped with a clean brush and clean Turkish towel, will sometimes remove the spot. When using it, rub the chalk on both sides of the material and brush and wipe both sides. Sometimes a grease spot may be removed by placing a blotter on each side and pressing with a warm iron.

This will answer "Just Va," too.

Honey Bear's Difficulty.

"O. K.," said Jelly Bear, as he got up on his hind legs and held out his arms. "Now jump!" he called to Honey Bear. But Honey Bear did not bend down far enough. As he tried to get out of the window. "Oh, this is dreadful!" growled Jelly Bear, as he saw that his dear Honey Bear was stuck between the ledge and the upper part of the window. "I should never have gone down first. I should have seen to it that she got up and help push, too, while he played the hose on the fire."

Willy Nilly now pushed Honey Bear with might and main and at last Honey Bear was released.

But she had been pushed so hard that she knocked Jelly Bear down as she landed in his arms, and over they both rolled.

"Are you hurt? Are you bruised?" everyone shouted. Jelly Bear picked themselves up. They were frightened at first, but now they realized that they had not hurt themselves.

"We're all right," they both agreed for about five minutes, then "Now let me play the hose," Jelly Bear added. "I've caused enough trouble. Maybe I can be of some help."

Honey Bear's Difficulty.

"O. K.," said Jelly Bear, as he got up on his hind legs and held out his arms. "Now jump!" he called to Honey Bear. But Honey Bear did not bend down far enough. As he tried to get out of the window. "Oh, this is dreadful!" growled Jelly Bear, as he saw that his dear Honey Bear was stuck between the ledge and the upper part of the window. "I should never have gone down first. I should have seen to it that she got up and help push, too, while he played the hose on the fire."

Willy Nilly now pushed Honey Bear with might and main and at last Honey Bear was released.

But she had been pushed so hard that she knocked Jelly Bear down as she landed in his arms, and over they both rolled.

"Are you hurt? Are you bruised?" everyone shouted. Jelly Bear picked themselves up. They were frightened at first, but now they realized that they had not hurt themselves.

"We're all right," they both agreed for about five minutes, then "Now let me play the hose," Jelly Bear added. "I've caused enough trouble. Maybe I can be of some help."

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT.

THE day after the parade Boynton sent for him. "Scott," he said, "Chapin has spoken to you about the proposed expedition."

"Yes," said Scotty, "he has. If he asks me what I think of it I'll tell him."

"I think it would be just as well to push that through as fast as possible. I'd like to see you start early in the winter. We find that there is a submarine available. We can buy one from the government and recondition it. This rescue story has taken a tremendous hold on public imagination."

"What has that to do with this trip?" said Scotty.

"Just that the public forgets very quickly. A new sensation. After all, it's a year now, or very nearly a year, since your—your heroism."

"Oh," said Scotty. "I'm to keep on downing for my public, is that it?"

Boynton looked at him. All the hearty, good-fellow look was gone from his eyes. He was all business man now, a business man whose pocket was being hurt.

"McCluskey," he said, "whether you think this is funny or not, the facts are these: We are carrying you on our pay roll at a very large salary. Frankly, you were worth that to us when you joined the company—your name and so on."

"Yes," said Scotty, "my salary came under the heading of 'advertising.' I always knew that. I never kidded myself about my position here."

"Good. Then we understand each other. The American public had a great affection for you. You have taken several occasions to alienate that feeling. There's no use beating around the bush; you are not the popular figure you were last fall. At present you are not worth to us the salary we are paying you."

"I'd be extremely happy to give you my resignation today," said Scotty.

"Not at all, not at all. But you will understand, if you think it over a little, why I am anxious for you to start on this expedition as soon as possible."

"Yes, I see," said Scotty. "It doesn't take much thinking. Now is the time to speak up, pull out of this swamp of bunk one and for all. You can get some other sap to go on your movie-trip. This one is mine through. But he remembered the empty apartment, the need he had to get away before he went crawling, begging to Janet."

If he refused this trip which could he do? He might as well go to the navy, but after all, he didn't want to do that. He didn't want to spend his life in the navy. This junket would pay well; it might even be fairly interesting. Anyway, he'd get away.

HE located Van Buskirk at last. He'd left the Photo News, and the Express in the months since Scotty had seen him. Chapin found him playing billiards at the Yale Club. He and Scotty met again the next day in Chapin's office.

"Hello, Commander," said Van Buskirk. "I heard we're going to get up to the moon. I'm re-reading the 'Rover Boys' so I'll get just the clean, hearty stuff that's needed."

"Hey, pipe down," said Scotty. "Chapin believes this—at least he doesn't take any kidding on it."

"All right," said Van Buskirk. "I'm sorry. You don't by any chance go for it yourself?"

"What do you think?" said Scotty. "That's all right, then," said Van Buskirk.

There was to be a dinner and general meeting of all the backers at the Town Club early the next week. Boynton was to be there, and young Jacob Griggs, son of old Jacob Griggs, who invented a thrashing machine and made $15,000,000; Litchfield, the editor of the Inquirer, and Marks of the Superlative Pictures; Chapin first spoke to me about this expedition. I was interested in it. He explained to me that the purpose of the trip was the gathering of scientific data on the upper waters of the Orinoco. Now, I don't know anything about science, but I do know something about ships and boating a gang of men. I liked the sound of this job.

"Mr. Chapin explained to me that a group of eminent scientists were going. I don't know why I expected something quite different from anything that's happened to me since a year ago this fall when that submarine sank. I should have known better. I ought to be pretty much of an expert in bunk by this time. I've seen a series of articles published, signed with my name, which I never wrote or could have written. And a book. I signed that, too, but I didn't write it."

"I've found myself with a job where I did nothing all day long for $25,000 a year, $300 every week, for reading magazines and shaking hands. So I'm surprised at myself for falling for this expedition business. But I did. I honestly imagine that this is what Chapin said it was, a genuine, serious, scientific expedition."

"When I heard about the submarine, I woke up. Even I am bright enough to know that any one who says he's taking a submarine up the Orinoco River for the purpose of scientific research is a liar. I realized what this thing was—a junket run for publicity for the money to be made out of newspaper articles and books and moving pictures."

"I wonder now why I strung along with this as long as I did. I can't defend myself. I thought I had to grab any chance to get away from this humiliating job of mine. But I know now that I don't want anything in this world enough to be mixed up in any more with this publicity orgy, all dressed up in the name of science."

"Maybe I haven't made myself quite clear. Here it is. I'm through. I'm not going to make any more speeches, or write any more articles, or talk over the radio, or shake hands, or kiss babies. I'm not going on your dear little expedition. The show's over. I'm going home."

Scotty was through the door that the silence broke into the murmur of many voices.

MEN AT HER FEET

By ROB EDEN

CHAPTER FOUR.

FOR the third time that week, Vicki saw the man in the gray flannel suit. He had no longer wearing the gray suit. He had on dark business clothes, but whatever he wore, she still continued to think of him as the man in the gray flannel suit.

She had accidentally bumped into him the first time as they were crossing Clark street, he going west and she hurrying east to her street car. And that was that, after murmured apologies from each of them. But the swift impact she had seen that he was young, and blond under his straw hat. She had noticed the immaculate gray flannel suit, the maroon linen handkerchief in the top pocket of his sack coat matching his maroon tie.

Very promptly she forgot the incident and the man until she saw him again the next day going into the Landseer building in the same block where the Mayfair Shop was located. He smiled as they passed on the sidewalk, an easy friendly smile, and tipped his hat, which was a soft panama.

Vicki, because she didn't quite know what to do, nodded back, an embarrassed sort of nod, and went on quickly. After all, she'd never seen him again, so what did it matter? It hadn't hurt her to acknowledge his smile even if she didn't know who he was.

So, again, that was that. Then today when she was going out to lunch, and passed the entrance to the Landseer building, as she did six days out of seven, four times each day, she saw him again. He was coming out as she was walking by, wearing a dark suit and the same panama hat. This time he smiled once more, and once more Vicki returned his smile with a nod.

His smile had been more friendly today. A nice smile. It warmed up his whole face. Vicki liked his face. His age was hard to determine, but she thought it could be anywhere from 25 to 35. He seemed older than Ray, but lacked the maturity of John.

Now and then during lunch she wondered idly what he did, and what his name was. It was evident that he worked somewhere in the Landseer Building, but that meant nothing because the 25 stories of the building housed nearly a thousand workers.

HAD she ever seen him before? Vicki decided she hadn't, or, if she had, she didn't remember. When she had first come to live with her brother and his wife, the people on the streets frightened her. Their unconcern as they hurried on their way, their faces unfamiliar, strange.

She missed the gay geniality of Crofton with its handful of inhabitants. There she knew everybody. Here, at first only Carol and John. She was lonely in the crowds where she knew no one.

Now she was used to the city. She plowed along in the morning, at noon, and every night, with the indifference of other city dwellers who were also going to work or to lunch, or to their homes. When you understood the city and were one of it, it was different. You loved it; you didn't long to recognize every face you saw.

That was why Vicki shouldn't have been curious about the man in the gray flannel suit. That was why she scolded herself as she finished her lunch for thinking of him. Yet when she passed the Landseer building on her way back to the Mayfair, she looked at the people walking in and out, and was disappointed because she didn't see the face she wanted to see.

She hung up her hat in the locker that was hers, brushed off her green crepe dress, powdered her face, and walked to the painted desk that was her own sanctum.

The relief cashier across the main line of the shop. "I guess I did something I shouldn't have done, Vicki. But I was rattled and the phone was busy."

shop. This was only her second day. "Some man called up and wanted your name and I gave it to him. It was all so natural that before I thought I'd given it to him."

"Some man?" Vicki asked curiously.

"Yes. It was only after he'd hung up that I realized he'd been bawling me, and all he wanted was your name. He was clever about it, though, and he fooled me. First he asked for Miss Smith, the red-haired girl in the shop. I told him there wasn't any Miss Smith in the shop who had red hair. That the Miss Smith we had was a brunette."

He said he must be mistaken, and then he described her, and I said it must be Vicki Arien he wanted. And I told him you were out to lunch. He thanked me and said he would call later. If I had thought, Vicki, but I didn't. It's all my fault."

"Don't worry about it," for Myrtle was upset.

"He had a nice voice, though. If anybody calls that you don't know, you can hang up on 'em."

VICKI sat down in her usual place, the smallest pucker of a frown between her eyebrows. She couldn't imagine who had called. No one ever phoned her on the main line of the shop. Mrs. Laird didn't allow any of the girls to use this phone for their personal business.

In six months VICKI ARIEN intends to marry RAY LAWRENCE, to whom she is newly engaged. But she accepted his diamond ring on "terms," stipulating that she intends to have her fling before she marries him.

Vicki is sure she loves Ray, but CAROL is sure, too, when she married Vicki's brother, John, and their marriage is marred by frequent bickering because Carol longs for amusement in the evenings and John wants to stay at home.

Vicki determines that her marriage shall be different. She explains her plan to Ray, and he objects to the idea of her dating other men while engaged to him. But because he wants Vicki so, he agrees to the arrangement. His ring evokes the admiration of the operators in the Mayfair Beauty Shop where Vicki is cashier.

shop. This was only her second day. "Some man called up and wanted your name and I gave it to him. It was all so natural that before I thought I'd given it to him."

"Some man?" Vicki asked curiously.

"Yes. It was only after he'd hung up that I realized he'd been bawling me, and all he wanted was your name. He was clever about it, though, and he fooled me. First he asked for Miss Smith, the red-haired girl in the shop. I told him there wasn't any Miss Smith in the shop who had red hair. That the Miss Smith we had was a brunette."

He said he must be mistaken, and then he described her, and I said it must be Vicki Arien he wanted. And I told him you were out to lunch. He thanked me and said he would call later. If I had thought, Vicki, but I didn't. It's all my fault."

"Don't worry about it," for Myrtle was upset.

"He had a nice voice, though. If anybody calls that you don't know, you can hang up on 'em."

VICKI sat down in her usual place, the smallest pucker of a frown between her eyebrows. She couldn't imagine who had called. No one ever phoned her on the main line of the shop. Mrs. Laird didn't allow any of the girls to use this phone for their personal business.

There was an instrument in the locker room back of the mirrored booths, a pay phone, for that purpose. Any calls that were made over this back phone, or came over it.

Someone who didn't know her name. . . . The frown deepened, as she told one of Mrs. Laird's patrons over the phone that it was impossible for her to have a permanent wave tomorrow at three. Thursday at three was open. Would that do? It would, so Vicki put down the name in its proper place on the appointment sheet. She was very diplomatic with Mrs. Laird's patrons, a fact that Mrs. Laird knew and appreciated.

COOL GIRL

Pat Kain

Mrs. Kain, who is a member of the St. Louis chapter of the International Order of the Broom, is shown in a dress made of dotted organdy with a silk taffeta girdle and bow. A dinner gown with double peplum, V-neckline and built-up back surmounted by a little sign, and a charming frock. It is trimmed with a wide, green taffeta bow and girdle. Cost, $5.35.

Parchment.
A clean cloth dipped in olive oil will remove all soil from a parchment shade and at the same time give it a lovely antique luster.

WITNESSES IN JURY INQUIRY UPHELD IN NOT TESTIFYING

Appeals Court Sustains Refusal to Answer Questions on Ground That to Do So Might Incriminate Themselves.

ASKED ABOUT VENIRE IN RICHARDS TRIAL

Employee of Attorneys and Negro Still Under Bond for Diversion of Panel List but Are Freed on Contempt Charges.

The St. Louis Court of Appeals today decided that Miss Odessa Simpkins, law office stenographer, and Henry West, Negro, former courthouse messenger, could not be compelled by the grand jury to answer its questions, answers to which, they said, might tend to incriminate them. The two were witnesses into the diversion of grand jury lists, and alleged jury tampering in the trial of Paul A. Richards, attorney, acquitted a year ago of the charge of kidnapping for ransom in the Alexander Berg case.

Circuit Judge Sader a week ago ordered the two sent to jail until they should answer the grand jury's questions. Their attorney, Sigmund Bass, applied to the Court of Appeals for a writ ordering their release, pleading that they were withholding their constitutional rights in refusing to answer, on the ground that they feared self-incrimination. The three members of the court, Judges Becker, Kane and McCullen, today concurred in granting the writ.

Still Under Bonds. Miss Simpkins and West need not go to jail for their refusal to testify, but they are still under common law bonds of $1000 each, given at the time of their arrest, March 20. The two, as shown by the grand jury's record furnished to the Court of Appeals, were asked by the grand jury, and refused to say, whether petit jury lists were taken by West, in advance of the summoning of the juries, to the office of Verne R. C. Lacy, attorney for Richards, in the Missouri Pacific Annex building, were delivered by West to Miss Simpkins, employed in the office, and were copied by her for Lacy's use.

The grand jury's record, filed with the Appellate Court, showed also that Miss Simpkins refused to state whether, after her arrest March 20, she took jury lists of March 6, 13 and 20 from a book case in Lacy's law office, and gave them to city detectives. Before this question was asked of Miss Simpkins, the detective who arrested her, and a policeman who worked with them, had testified before the grand jury.

Attorney Bass argued today before the Appellate Court that the constitutional rights of the two witnesses were clear. And were those guaranteed for 1000 years or more, and that to compel them to answer questions which might incriminate them would be equivalent to going back to inquisition and star-chamber times.

Bass Not Questioned. The Judges did not question Bass, but they all put questions to Assistant Circuit Attorney McLaughlin, argued in support of Judge Sader's order. McLaughlin cited court decisions in the Hollway case, in Cole County, Hollway having been a Jefferson City reporter who was jailed for refusal to give testimony. McLaughlin cited court decisions to the effect that a Circuit Judge had the right to determine whether answers to questions would incriminate a witness. He also said these two witnesses had been assured, by Circuit Attorney Miller, that they would not be indicted.

Question of Conspiracy. McLaughlin said also that the diversion of jury lists from their proper destination, as was done by West, is not a crime under the law, and therefore that no indictment could be found against the two.

Judges Becker and McCullen replied that the crime of conspiracy to bribe jurors could be charged, and that, regardless of Circuit Attorney Miller's promise, another prosecutor or another grand jury might indict them.

Judge Kane asked whether the Circuit Attorney was not in possession of statements made by the two witnesses at the time of their arrest. McLaughlin said there were such statements, but that it might not be possible to use them as evidence.
